NAZIS RESUME DRIVE TO NORTH

SCHMUTZLER HOLD-UP TRIO SENT TO O.S.R.

Get Indeterminate Sentences For Slugging and Robbing Cafe Operator.

ALL ENTER GUILTY PLEAS

Judge Sets May 6 as Date For Trial of Ex-Convicts Linked to Gunfire Auto Chase.

Three Ellwood City, Pa., youths who slugged and robbed Philip Schmutzler, Mansfield restaurant owner of $1,240 on North Main street in a daring holdup two weeks ago, were given indeterminate sentences to the Mansfield reformatory today by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston. They pleaded guilty to indictments for armed robbery.

The young men, all of whom had good records, were William Justine, 28; Vincent Carbeau, 28, and Rocco Cusato, 24.

Their sentences permit the Ohio Pardon and Parole commission to pardon them at its discretion and on the basis of their behavior in the reformatory.

Six other persons indicted Wednesday by the grand jury were arraigned with the trio this morning, one of them pleading guilty and drawing a county jail sentence and five others pleading innocent.

Deny Charges.

Stephen Janas, 28, and Roy Taylor, 32, former Indiana state prison inmates, who were indicted for shooting with intent to kill, pleaded innocent. Their trials were set for the week of May 6. The pair figured in a gun battle with a state highway patrolman and deputy sheriff last week near Mansfield.

The three men who confessed robbing Schmutzler entered their pleas through counsel, but they related the story of the robbery when questioned by Judge Huston. Carbeau was represented by Atty. John E. O'Donnell, who pleaded at length for leniency for the three because of their clean records. Atty. Charles Spreng represented Cusata and Justine.

Before sentencing them Judge Huston: "If I did anything else but sentence you according to the statute for this crime, it would be opening the way for other youths, possibly less fortunate than you, to plead off. This is a pure case of armed

County Red Cross Unit to Receive Washington Honor

The Richland County chapter of the Red Cross will be honored at the annual national convention of the American Red Cross in Washington next month, according to word received here today.

Miss Mabel Boardman, national secretary and director of all volunteer services, last year presented an honor banner to Ohio for having the highest Roll Call average of any state in the Union.

Ohio won the banner again this year, and Richland chapter, as the outstanding chapter in the state, will receive the honor banner for the state.

The Richland chapter, which has won the membership flag of the state for a number of years, for having the highest per capita membership of any chapter, was signalled out for the honor this year, according to national officials, "because of the consistent increase in memberships, excellent Roll Call organizations and high percentage of per capita membership."

John H. Finefrock, chapter chairman, will receive the banner at 9:15 a. m. Wednesday, May 8, in Continental hall, Washington, D. C.

Famous French Foreign Legion Moves Into Action on Trondheim Front Against Nazis

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In a dramatic dispatch from the Swedish-Norwegian border, Barbro Alving, International News Service special correspondent, today reveals details of growing Allied strength in Norway. British planes, with huge floating airports in Norway's fjords as bases, and famed attack troops from the French Foreign Legion are meeting the newest German assaults, the dispatch states.)

By BARBRO ALVING
(INS Staff Correspondent)

ON THE SWEDISH-NORWEGIAN BORDER—Germany's offensive forces on the front north of Trondheim today widened their circular movements to embrace the English and French lines, but they met two powerful new opponents.

One was the most famous and effective attack troops of the French Foreign Legion, which under cover of darkness advanced from the bombed landing quay at Namsos.

The other was units of the British air force, stationed at huge floating airports and large aircraft carriers somewhere in the Norwegian fjords.

The floating airports and aircraft carriers are believed to have increased considerably the possibility that the Allies may assume control of the air in Norway.

This news has been confirmed in two ways. First, yesterday morning from the bomb-proof cellar of the only remaining large house at Namsos I saw four planes in the air—a German bomber and three British fighting planes. The German craft was shot down.

Secondly, members of the French expe-

NYA BACKS PLAN TO USE $40,000 ON CITY AIRPORT

Government Agency Tells City to Submit Project; Start In July Possible.

Strong indication was seen today that a $40,000 National Youth administration project, proposed by the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association, for improvement of Mansfield's municipal airport may get under way before July 1.

The construction work, which would furnish employment for about 150 Richland county youth between the ages of 18 and 25 for a period of a year, hinges on the approval of the proposal by NYA officials in Columbus.

District NYA officials yesterday recommended to city and NAA officers that a secondary proposal to resod the runways and build a radio beam station be delayed and suggested the submission of a more comprehensive proposal.

They told aviation club officials and Mayor William J. Locke in a meeting here yesterday that by the time the agency could get to the resodding job it would be too late in the spring.

Improvements Proposed.

The larger proposal calls for the extension of present runways, construction of a radio beam station, erection of a clubhouse, landscaping and the construction of a state roadside park on the route 13 side of the flying field.

As set up, the major portion of the cost would be financed by the government, which would supply all labor on the job. The city's share, which would amount to less than one-third of the total cost would be met largely by furnishing tools and equipment.

RIVER FALLING

Ohio Still Eight Feet Above Cincinnati Flood Level.

CINCINNATI —(INS)— The Ohio river hovered around a 58-to-59-foot stage today as it continued its slow but steady fall from the flood crest of 60.04 feet—eight feet above flood level. The rampaging river was expected to be back in its banks Sunday.

The slight drop was not enough to affect conditions in the flooded lowlands, still inundated by seven feet of water, but it was an indication that the threat of a serious flood was over, barring heavy rainfall, officials said.

Meanwhile, word was received from Maj. Gen. Julian Schley, chief of the U. S. army engineers in Washington, that the $7,543,000 Cincinnati flood prevention plan had been approved.

LOSEY FUNERAL

Sweden Gives Full Honors To U. S. Military Attache.

STOCKHOLM —(AP)— Funeral services for Capt. Robert M. Losey, assistant United States military attache in Stockholm who was killed in Norway Sunday during a German air raid, were held here today in a chapel crowded with Swedish military and government officials.

The Swedish aviation corps accorded full military honors to the dead flier.

SHERIFF NAMED

Deputy Succeeds to Belmont Post on Duff's Death.

ST. CLAISVILLE—(AP)—County commissioners today named Chief Deputy Earl Hinkle as Belmont county sheriff to succeed Howard Duff, 48, who died last night.

Duff had been sheriff 10 years and was a Democratic candidate for renomination. He also served six years as mayor of Martins Ferry.

French Troops Sail for War

French troops go aboard a transport at an unnamed French port. The French censor said the soldiers were sailing to join the allied forces in Norway. Dispatches from Norway today said soldiers of the famous Foreign Legion had landed at Namsos.

Late War Flashes

STOCKHOLM — (U.P.) — German armed forces, led by low-flying airplanes with machine guns raking the ground, hammered their way northward through Allied defense lines in Norway today in the two-pronged offensive up the Gudbrandsal and Oesterdal valleys.

PARIS—(INS)—Spasmodic artillery duels in the Saar area of the western front were reported today, with the French gaining the advantage by breaking up German working parties constructing breastworks. These duels were announced in the war communique, which stated merely: "Artillery actions in the region of the Saar river."

LONDON—(INS)—One hundred and fifty-seven lives were lost when the British destroyer Hunter was sunk at Narvik on April 10, according to an admiralty announcement today. Casualties were listed as eight officers, 147 ratings and two civilian canteen workers.

STOCKHOLM — (INS) — Unconfirmed reports that Peter Fleming, British journalist and author, had been killed in the bombing of the Grand Hotel in Namsos on Sunday were published today by Stockholm papers. No confirmation was available at either the British or Norwegian legations here.

DEBATE BEGUN ON WAGE-HOUR LAW CHANGES

New Deal Backers Out-Voted In First Skirmish Over Three Amendments.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The house began general debate today on amendments to the wage-hour law. A preliminary skirmish over rules had shown revisionists outvoting New Deal supporters, 233 to 141.

Advocates of change in existing wage-hour standards, and some of those opposed to revision, agreed that the vote by which the house agreed late yesterday to take up three pending wage-hour bills was a fair indication that it would pass one of the measures by about the same margin. Growing sentiment for adjournment by June 1, however, made action by the senate doubtful.

As the house began considering proposed amendments affecting some white collar workers and processors of agricultural commodities, the special house committee investigating the national labor relations board resumed hearings. House sentiment toward the wage-hour law is expected to be reflected early next month in house votes on proposed changes in the Wagner labor relations act.

The committee, headed by Rep. Howard W. Smith, D., Va., called Mapes Davidson, a former labor board trial examiner, as a witness in its first hearing since February. Davidson resigned from the board last month in a letter to Labor Board Chairman J. Warren Madden accusing the board majority of continuing "brazenly and openly to foster Communists and kindred radicals." The labor board, on receiving the letter, dismissed Davidson with prejudice for writing a "false and scurrilous letter."

Barden's amendments would remove from the restriction of the present 42-hour maximum work week an estimated 988,000 workers handling agricultural commodities.

Retake Roeros, Defeat Allies Near Dombaas

London Admits 'Limited Withdrawal' In Face of Heavy Pressure; Arrival of British Fighting Planes Cheers Expeditionary Force Leaders.

BULLETIN

STOCKHOLM—(UP)—A battle to block the German drive northward up the Oesterdal valley was reported north of the town of Roeros today as Allied forces struck back at the Germans.

BULLETIN

STOCKHOLM—(UP)—British naval and air forces were reported in frontier dispatches today to have strongly bombarded the German-held fort of Agdenes, guarding the entrance to Trondheim fjord, in an effort to blast a path through which they could attack German warships inside the fjord.

(By United Press)

German forces were reported to have re-occupied the Norwegian town of Roeros at dawn today and were said in messages to the Swedish border to be in action north of the town.

A German motorized force was understood to have reached Roeros yesterday, but fell back to a position about six miles south of the town to await reinforcements.

The force which reached Roeros yesterday was said to have encountered a strong Norwegian force firmly entrenched in a position north of the city.

At dawn today, according to the border reports, advance units started moving up again and entered the town.

(Dispatches to the Stockholm newspaper Allehanda reported brisk fighting in progress north of Roeros, and it was presumed that the German forces which took the town had progressed further to meet the entrenched Norwegians. The newspaper said heavy artillery fire was in progress in the vicinity.)

Meanwhile, a London war office communique today said that Allied troops had engaged strong German forces south of the Norwegian town of Dombaas but had been forced back. (Dombaas is about 20 miles southwest of Roeros.)

The communique said that "limited withdrawals" by the Allied forces south of Dombaas were necessary in view of the strong attack of Germans fighting their way up the Gudbrandsdal valley from Lillehammer.

The British forces previously had been forced back from Lillehammer and were reported at Otta, 25 miles southeast of Dombaas.

The communique said:

"Allied troops in southern Norway have been heavily engaged south of Dombaas by strong enemy forces supported by medium artillery and armored fighting vehicles and low-flying aircraft.

"Limited withdrawals have been necessary.

"In the area of Steinkjer there has been no engagement but patrols are active. There is nothing to report from the Narvik area."

The magnitude of the fighting in the Roeros sector was not definitely indicated, but the Allehanda dispatch said that there was lively artillery fire from both sides.

The Nazi advance up the Oesterdal valley was one of three main actions. A second Nazi column which had advanced from Lillehammer up the Gudbrandsdal valley to Ringebu was reported facing reinforced Allied troops in the Otta sector and additional Allied troops were said to be moving from Namsos southward on the

White Makes 4-Point Attack On New Deal In Address Here

Proposing to get the federal government "back on the road to recovery and constitutional administration," Congressman Dudley White of Norwalk, Republican candidate for the nomination as U. S. senator, last night put Richland county Republicans in the campaign mood with a fiery talk before 400 persons at G. O. P. headquarters.

White, who is opposing Mayor Harold N. Burton of Cleveland, for the nomination, attacked the New Deal on four fronts, scoring its farm, economic, relief, and national defense programs.

"The New Deal is no Santa Claus; it doesn't give you something for nothing," he said. "Last year Ohio paid 335 million dollars to the federal government and got back just 165 million.

"Most people are not much interested in the huge federal debt piled up by the New Deal because it's too big to comprehend. Some idea of its size can be obtained, however, from the fact that Richland county's share of it is $20,500,000, which constitutes an invisible mortgage on nearly one-third of all the taxable real estate in the county.

"If your county commissioners tried to put even a small part of that debt over on you, you'd probably vote them out of office without hesitation," he said.

"There is no consistency in a farm policy that curtails production here and then lets down the gates to foreign products that would require 25 million acres to raise here," he continued. "I believe in reciprocity if it works both ways, but I do not support the Hull reciprocal trade treaty because it is too one-sided.

"Relief must be taken out of

GIRL MURDERED

Blighted Romance Suspected as Slayer's Motive.

ABINGTON, Pa.—(AP)—A killer crept silently onto the porch of a home in this suburban community last night, peered through a window at a peaceful family scene, then shot 16-year-old Edith Snyder to death as she pored over her high school studies.

The attractive chestnut-haired girl arose with a scream as a bullet tore through the window and pierced her heart. She took a few steps, then fell dead in the arms of her 17-year-old brother, Edwin.

Her mysterious assailant ran to a curb, jumped into an automobile and sped away.

Although Miss Snyder's family could assign no possible motive, investigators worked on the theory the slaying might have been the climax of an adolescent love affair.

SEEK PENSION FUND CONTROL

Firemen's Board Asks Council to Turn Over All Money It Has for Pensions.

The Mansfield firemen's pension board had taken steps today to gain complete control of funds heretofore appropriated to it by city council in partial amounts and as funds were needed for payment of pensions.

At the request of the board City Solicitor Marion D. Ward was drafting legislation which will turn all firemen's pension funds over to the board.

Payment has been handled through the city auditor's office from appropriations made by council. The legislation will be submitted at the May 7 meeting of council.

Capt. Frank R. Stahl, secretary of the board, said the action had LONDON—(AP)—The admiralty announced today a casualty list of 157, including eight officers, as "missing" from the destroyer Hunter, sunk in the first battle of Narvik on April 10.

"There is a faint possibility," the admiralty aded, "that a very small number of these officers and ratings may be prisoners of war."

CABINET STAYS

Belgian Leaders Withdraw Their Resignation.

BRUSSELS, Belgium — (U.P.) — The cabinet of Premier Hubert Pierlot decided today to withdraw its resignation.

The decision followed a cabinet meeting at which it was announced that "following the wish of the king the government decided to remain in office."

The cabinet fell yesterday when liberal members resigned because of the chamber of deputies' refusal to approve a public education budget in a form dividing the funds into separate French and Flemish sections. It was an outgrowth of old rivalry between French and Flemish factions.

INQUEST OPENED

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y. —(UP)— Coroner Fred C. Sabin opened an inquest today into the wreck on the Lake Shore limited which killed 31 persons and injured over 100.

Sabin said every possible cause for the wreck would be explored. He expected to call 12 witnesses at the first session.

Fast Track, Fair Weather In Store for Tomorrow's Relays

Weather fair, track fast.

That was the weatherman's word to Harry Mehock about tomorrow, when the 14th annual Mansfield Relays will be run at Stadium Field.

True, the forecast wasn't intended exclusively for Mehock, but being director of the Relays, he probably was more intersted in the weather for Saturday than anyone else.

The day won't be too warm, the forecast indicating that the present coolness—in the middle 50's—would prevail, and there may be clouds.

But it isn't scheduled to rain. And if the day's cloudy, spectators won't have to squint to see the events across the field in the late afternoon, and they can put up with whatever coolness there is without freezing to death.

The mercury stood at 55 at noon today, after getting down to an almost unbelievable 28, four degrees below freezing, last night. The average for the past 24 hours was 40.5, as against a normal of 49.

LONDON: 'First Trick's' Loss In Norway Admitted by Allies

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—British military sources admitted today loss of "the first trick" in Norway, but expressed confidence in the outcome of a decisive battle for Trondheim, for which both sides are hurriedly concentrating men and guns.

While these sources conceded that Germany had "the best of it" in the air in the opening phase, the air ministry announced that Royal Air Force fighting planes and anti-aircraft guns had brought down eight enemy planes and damaged nine others in "vigorous offensive action" in Norway yesterday and last night.

For the first time the ministry announced action by R. A. F. planes in the north. The communique stated that "five of our aircraft are missing" and others had been damaged by bombing attacks.

The R. A. F. attacks on German airplane bases in Norway and Denmark were said by the air ministry to have blasted oil tanks on Oslo fjord, a seaplane base and four large ships northwest of Stavanger.

Military sources, meanwhile conceded Germany at least temporary aerial superiority because of her "five, possibly six, air bases

PLOT: Hitler to Tell About Allied 'Plot' Against Germany

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler tomorrow will "expose" alleged plans of the Allied general staff to invade Germany from Norwalk and Denmark during the second week of April and deal it a "fatal blow" in the most vulnerable direction, International News Service learned today.

The fuehrer characteristically has chosen the most startling manner to place before the world what he believes to be "proof" that Britain and France planned to violate Scandinavian neutrality in an effort to deal a knockout blow to the reich.

Discovery of these plans, according to the German view, necessitated German "occupation" of Denmark and Norway.

They will be outlined in detail by the fuehrer at the chancellery at 2 p. m. tomorrow (8 a. m., EST).

Hitler has summoned all foreign correspondents to a special conference in the ambassadors' chamber of the chancellery at that time and also has invited the whole diplomatic corps in Berlin, including United States Charge D'Affaires Alexander Kirk.

NO NEW DEAL IN THIS GAME

Rationing Cards Have to Last for Year; Loss Invalid.

VIENNA—(AP)—Take good care of your clothing and soap rationing cards as otherwise you will have to get along without them, says a new order issued by the authorities of Vienna.

Ever increasing reports from citizens claiming to have lost their rationing cards have induced authorities to issue strict orders, effective immediately, that no substitute cards be granted for clothing or soap cards reported lost.

Where as food rationing cards are always issued for four weeks, clothing and soap cards are valid for a whole year. The loss of these, therefore, is a severe blow as neither textiles nor soap can be bought in Germany without them.

Fascinating Mystery Filmed.

The ghost of an old, unsolved murder comes out of hiding to haunt the happiness of a man and his gay young wife in Daphne Du Maurier's best-seller, "Rebecca" which Selznick has made into a picture. A happy choice for the role of Maxim de Winter is Laurence Olivier, who seems destined for dark, moody roles. His greatest role was as the mad gypsy in "Wuthering Heights." A young actress who has had little opportunity to demonstrate her ability will be seen as the second wife. She is Joan Fontaine, sister of Olivia DeHavilland and the wife of Brian Aherne. Critics have written rave notices of her work as the sensitive wife whose happiness is threatened by a dead woman. The picture opens at the Ohio tomorrow and runs through Thursday.

Bromfield Story Filmed.

Ann Sheridan, who has floundered through a morass of publicity mush, gets her chance to prove whether or not she has ability in the film version of "It All Came True," a Louis Bromfield story. Miss Sheridan, who came to the screen by way of a Texas beauty contest, plays a real life girl in this story of an old fashioned New York boarding house which is suddenly transformed into a glorified night club by a big-time racketeer. With Miss Sheridan is Jeffrey Lynn, Humphrey Bogart and Zazu Pitts. "It All Came True" will be shown at the Madison for four days, starting tomorrow.

Singin' Marshall.

A shootin' Western and a romantic drama of the Southwest are combined to make up the Ritz bill for today and tomorrow. Smith Ballew sings some rousing outdoor songs along with his fighting in "Panamint's Bad Man," the story of a deputy marshal who sets out to stop the raids on the Wells-Fargo silver express. "The Cisco Kid and The Lady" brings the romantic outlaw back to the screen, this time played by Cesar Romero, with Marjorie Weaver as heart interest.

Timely Subject.

Roy Rogers, Ohio's contribution to the movie cowboy ranks, heads the bill at the Park theater for the tag-end of the week in "Saga of Death Valley." Besides the Western, the Park is showing "Convicted Woman" with Frieda Inescort, Rochelle Hudson, Lola Lane and June Lang. The picture has a timely interest for Ohio audiences for it deals with a problem that is in this week's headlines—trouble in a girl's reformed school.

A Boy and His Dog.

The troubles of an eight-year-old boy who wants a dog but who is being raised according to the book (on child psychology) are depicted in "Little Orvie," Majestic attraction. This is a film adaptation of the Booth Tarkington novel, with small John Sheffield (who was the son of Tarzan once), as Orvie. Ernest Truex and Dorothy Tree portray his parents. Tim McCoy as "The Straight Shooter" rounds out the bill.

DEER CENSUS

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—(AP)—It's census year—and by modern methods, too—even in the wildlife world. Forest Service officials counted 1,800 antelope in a six-hour flight over 600,000 acres of rugged northern California mountains and valleys. In other years it required weeks to complete the survey on foot and by horseback.

Bromfield and Ann Sheridan

Although Hollywood purchased five Bromfield stories within less than a year, only two have reached the screen to date. "It All Came True," the second one, opens at the Madison Saturday for four days. "The Rains Came," the first of the five, was released last September. Author Bromfield, who recently returned to his Richland county farm from the film capital, is shown above congratulating Ann Sheridan on her excellent work in his story. "It All Came True" is said to have given the Warner Brothers "Oomph" girl her first real break as an actress. Warners are reported to have paid Bromfield $50,000 for this glorified gangster yarn.

FILM, 'IT ALL CAME TRUE' HAS MANSFIELD OPENING TOMORROW

The Mansfield showing of "It All Came True," film based on the story by Louis Bromfield will begin Saturday at the Madison theater.

Hollywood has purchased five Bromfield stories within less than a year. The film starting here Saturday is the second one screened, "The Rains Came" being the first of the Bromfield series to be released.

Ann Sheridan, the red-headed Texan, has the leading feminine role. Miss Sheridan sings, and does the rhumba.

With the quaintness, charm and dramatic suspense of the Bromfield novel, the film tells the story of a group of people who live in a New York boarding house run by two sentimental old women, using it as a refuge where they can fight off the reality of the present and dwell in the fond memories of the past. This atmosphere is shattered when Ann comes home to roost.

Cleverly worked into the story are the songs "The Gaucho Serenade" and "Angel in Disguise."

FIGHTS SEWER RENTAL VERDICT

Right of City to Shut Off Water Supply to Be Tested In Appeals Court.

The dispute over the right of the city of Mansfield to shut off water service to homes for nonpayment of the sewer rental charge will be taken into the Fifth district court of appeals, counsel for Mrs. Druzella Gatton, plaintiff in an action against the city, indicated today.

Atty. Joseph H. Ellison, representing Mrs. Gatton, filed a notice of intention to appeal in common pleas court. He said the appeal will be based on questions of law.

Mrs. Gatton's petition for $150 damages was dismissed last Monday by Judge P. H. Wieland of Morrow county who heard the case by special assignment in Richland county common pleas court.

Judge Wieland ruled that the water and sewer services are so closely associated that the city has a right to turn off either or both services for the failure to pay one charge. The rentals are collected together.

Mrs. Gatton filed her action after the city shut off the water at her home because she failed to pay a $4 21 sewer rental bill.

Athletes Ready to Attack Mansfield Relays' Records

Over 600 Ohio Lads Set for Annual Classic

State Scholastic Track Champions Among Army of Stars Entered In Event Saturday.

By CHARLES MARTIN

FROM the four corners of the Buckeye state, track athletes will converge on Stadium field bright and early tomorrow morning for the Kentucky Derby of scholastic track classics—the 14th running of the Mansfield Relays.

Founded by Coach Harry Mehock, the meet will attract the state's outstanding youngsters who are expected to wage a hectic battle in an effort to establish new records in at least four events.

With 37 Class A schools, among them Cleveland East Tech, favorite to take the Relays championship held by Cleveland East, more than 600 boys are set to give spectators numerous thrills.

Activities start with the preliminary events at 10 a. m. while the finals are scheduled to take over the stage at 2 p. m.

Considerable attention will be centered on two East Tech youngsters, who come here as Ohio scholastic champions in their respective fields.

Probably the most outstanding is Chet Thomas. He is the state 100 and 220-yard dash champion. Thomas copped the 100-yard dash in the Relays last spring in 10.2s, and he'll be out to equal or better the record of 9.6 seconds set by Jesse Owens in 1933. Incidentally, Owens represented the same school.

Another East Tech lad, Harold Lane, will hold a share of attention. Lane, who was selected on the 1939 national interscholastic all-star team of which Mansfield's Johnny Linta was a member, is a star hurdler.

Lane marked up a new record in the 220-yard hurdles at Columbus last year in winning the championship. He did it in the fastest time for the event in national scholastic competition during '39.

There are several other boys who will hold a share of the spotlight. Ray Jordon of Akron South will be back to defend his mile title. In copping the event last spring he set a new record of four minutes and 34 seconds.

Bill Lothes, promising Newark high weight man, is a threat to break Henry (Jabbo) Giles, shot put record of 50-feet, 3½ inches made in 1938. Lothes recently topped the mark by one and three-quarter inches in a dual meet against Columbus East.

While Mehock is optimistic about the Mansfield high Red Streaks' chances of finishing among the leaders, he has been sending his squad through stiff workouts and believes several of his proteges may make it interesting for visiting rivals.

An additional 10 junior high schools from north central Ohio, among them John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed, will compete in a meet during the Relays.

Shelby will send Bill Yosick, Ed Laubie, Bob Lehman and Hunter in the group of 15 youngsters.

Mehock had his staff of assistants working full speed today to have the cinder paths at Stadium field in tip-top shape for tomorrow's meet. The break in the weather this week has allowed the track to dry out and Mehock thinks it'll be in excellent shape.

SPRINT DEFEATS MADE RICE DISTANT MAN

SOUTH BEND — (AP) — Greg Rice originally was a sprinter and shifted to the longer distances because a team mate could consistently beat him in the short runs and Greg wanted to win his races.

"There was a negro boy back in Missoula, Montana, ten years ago named Leo Lundy who ran the sprints and so did I. Lea beat me easily and I still wanted to win. The only alternative was to shift to the longer races. Then I began running the half mile and the mile," Greg said.

DON'T MAKE GOOD

BALTIMORE —(AP)— Although the rich Preakness race at Pimlico track here is primarily a Maryland race, only three home-bred horses ever have won it.

Loud Protests Come Out of Keystone State

Feeling Running High Against Rule Prohibiting Schools From Competing In Relays.

ACTION by high school athletic associations in Pennsylvania and Michigan prohibiting scholastic athletes of those states from competing in the 14th renewal of the Mansfield Relays at Stadium field tomorrow makes the classic an all-Ohio event for the first time since 1937—and is stirring up loud protests from the Keystone state.

Approximately 600 athletes—a mark considerably below last spring's entry—will perform tomorrow and in that army are several youths who are expected to threaten Relays records.

Joe Williams of the Erie, Pa., Times seems to explain in part the feeling against the ruling in his state. Here is part of what this writer has to say:

"Pennsylvania's young scholastic athletes have been barred from competing in the 1940 Mansfield Relays Saturday because the Mansfield meet will offer something unusual and attractive in the way of prizes for the boys capable enough to win.

"Pennsylvania's athletes, at least those living in this section of the state which annually has sent representatives to the Mansfield meet, should tell Mr. Edmund Wicht, secretary of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association, to go and dip his head in a rain barrel.

"Just because a boy stood a chance of possibly winning a 15-jewel wrist watch if he could vault higher than any other athlete at Mansfield, or if he could jump farther, Mr. Wicht says our boys can't take part.

"If Mehock had bought a couple hundred fountain pens of no more value than a dollar . . . our boys could have gone to Mansfield. . . . The day of the 30-cent medals and two-dollar team trophies is gone.

"Maybe Mr. Wicht should take a run over to Mansfield Saturday when he's not looking in the book for something to rule on, and take a look at the talent which Mehock annually attracts for the Mansfield competition.

"While's he's in the Ohio city, too, he might take note of the community spirit which prevails and which makes the Mansfield meet all the more attractive. . . . Every mother, father, son and daughter in Mansfield has something to do with the Relays . . . if not on the field then to housing and feeding the hundreds of young athletes who pour into their city and their homes."

* * *

H. R. Townsend, Ohio high school athletic director, approved the individual awards before Mehock tried to add them to the list of prizes. Everything seemed set for out-of-state schools to come here when suddenly directors of Pennsylvania and Michigan ruled against it.

Dizzy Dean's Nerve Praised By AP Writer

Calls Pitcher One of Game's Impressive Figures.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP) Sports Writer)

DIZZY DEAN always was and still is a nervy bounder.

That wasn't praise the way people said it five years ago when Jay Hanna (or is it Jerome Herman) was in his incomparable prime with the St. Louis Cardinals. But it is now.

Pitching on his nerve alone he still is one of the game's impressive figures. That great right arm of his has lost its whip but his heart never has faltered.

"Ole Diz" toed the rubber again yesterday out in Chicago's Wrigley field and clamped down on Cincinnati's National League champions with a five-hit pitching performance that won for the Cubs 4-2.

It didn't resemble even faintly those stirring Dean dramas of another era, but it was just as effective in the won and lost column. Diz got a bad start. He walked the first two batters he faced and made an error on the third to let in a run. Then he intentionally passed a third and another run was scored on a fly.

Manager Gabby Hartnett no doubt was disturbed and the fans were, too. But if Dean ever quavered no one knew it. He came back to pitch shutout ball for the next eight frames, striking out only one batter but allowing only one walk. He kept sailing that "nothing ball of his back and forth across the corners of the plate, curving it in and out and once in a while sandwiching in a straight high one that would have been blindingly fast in that other day.

It worked, anyway, and in the meantime the Cubs crowded big Paul Derringer, ace of the Reds, for 11 hits.

With Cincinnati dropping out of a tie for first place in the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers took over sole possession of the lead by beating the Phillies 3-1 for their fifth victory without a defeat. Hugh Casey parcelled out five hits.

The New York Giants continued winning by battering the Boston Bees 9-1. Bill Lohrman was at the top of his form in scattering six hits and striking out nine. Three Boston hurlers gave the Giants 11 blows.

St. Louis slugging Cardinals rolled up 22 hits against Pittsburgh but barely edged out the Pirates 10-9. Seven pitchers saw service in the melee.

The Cleveland Indians continued to set the pace for the American League with Bob Feller getting credit for his second triumph as the Tribe topped the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

A two-run homer by Pinky Higgins in the eighth inning gave Buck Newsom and the Detroit Tigers a 4-2 decision over the St. Louis Browns, who had taken a two-run lead in the first and held on to it doggedly behind Elden Auker's submarineballing.

A double by Gee Walker with the bases loaded climaxed a six-run ninth inning that brought the Washington Senators a 7-6 verdict over the Philadelphia Athletics. George Caster had held the Senators scoreless until they notched one run in the sixth.

The Yanks and Red Sox were rained out at Boston.

ELKS PRACTICE

The Elks lodge softball team will hold their first practice session of the season at Liberty park at 10:30 a. m. Sunday, it was announced today.

Kobacker's Win Women's City Tourney Title

Team Chalks Up 2421 Total to Annex Laurels In Meet at Meder Alleys.

THE TEAM championship of the Women's City bowling tournament today belongs to the Kobacker club.

Led by McMichaels, who collected a 501, Kobacker's punched out a 2421 total to annex the title at the Meder Recreation alleys last night. Eight teams participated in the tourney.

With Sophie Meder leading the way, the Carek Florists grabbed the runner-up berth by hitting the pins for a 2360. Sophie copped individual honors for the night with a 538 on games of 234, 169 and 135.

The Long Bar came in third by virtue of its 2337 mark, while Shelley's Candies finished fourth with a 2322 and Brenner's Jewelers took the fifth place on a 2314 total.

Richland Printers, champions of the Women's league, ended up in sixth place with a 2310. McMichaels and Meder were the only members to break the 500-mark.

The women will return to the Meder alleys Tuesday night to fight it out for honors in the doubles and singles which will wind up the meet.

Sophie Meder was the only one to break over the 200 in a single game.

COACH LAYDEN WOULD END 'FAKE INJURIES'

NOTRE DAME —(AP)— Coach Elmer Layden of Notre Dame believes that football coaches should enter into a gentleman's agreement to play their games without having players fake injuries and be substituted for without penalty.

Layden says it is probable that Notre Dame and the Army will come to such an understanding for their annual game next fall.

Layden says the practice creates worry among spectators and radio listeners and that parents of players reportedly hurt are often greatly concerned.

Feller Licks Jinx

Pitches Eight-Hit Ball to Squelch Chicago White Sox, 3 to 1.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Bob Feller, the 21-year-old Iowa boy regarded by many as the best pitcher in baseball, has passed one of the big tests of his meteoric career.

The no-hit jinx, hovering over Bob since the season's opener in Chicago, was squelched yesterday as he pitched eight-hit ball to beat the White Sox, 3 to 1. Bob struck out eight, gave only two passes and was in serious trouble in only the ninth inning—when the Sox got their only run.

Feller was knocked out of the box by Detroit here last Sunday in his second start of the year, but the victory yesterday showed that he suffered no physical or mental ill effects from the no-hitter.

Johnny Allen was slated to face Chicago today, with Lefty Lee the visitors' mound nominee. The Indians leave tomorrow for a three-game series in Detroit and then start east.

Home runs by Rollie Hemsley and Jeff Heath gave Feller his victory. The catcher poled his in the second and Heath hit for the circuit in the eighth. The Tribe picked up its other run in the seventh as Ken Keltner walked and scored all the way from first on Bob Kennedy's wild throw on Hemsley's bunt.

A walk to Julius Solters and Taft Wright's single gave Chicago its run in the ninth. Edgar Smith, who lost the no-hitter to Feller, retired for a pinch hitter after limiting the Redskins to six hits in seven innings.

Trouble Dogs ABC Champs

Last Year's Winners Hit By Hard Luck.

DETROIT—(AP)—Trouble again is dogging at the heels of champions competing in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Ned Day of Chicago, national singles match champion, is the latest to come under the A. B. C. jinx. The 30-year-old kegler, regarded as one of the all-time bowling greats, was forced to cancel his doubles and singles schedules today because of a serious ankle infection.

Less Fuller, Day's partner in the doubles, may team with Hank Marino, former match champion, in the event. Marino's partner, Billy Sixty, Milwaukee sports writer and bowling ace, suffered a broken vertabra in an automobile accident a month ago.

Two sets of teams failed to produce a change among the five-man leaders in last night's firing but Elmer Hauser and Bill Ballinger of Toledo rolled 1,311 for fifth place in the doubles.

FISHING FOR FUN

Tips On Casting: 4

By MILTON KRAFT
(National All-Around Champion)

Distance casting is the pride of the average fisherman but few can handle more than 40 feet of line. Tournament casters go well over 100 feet. Here Champion Milton Kraft shows the correct finish of a distance cast—the rod pointing directly to 3 on the clock dial.

* * * * *

DISTANCE

MOST fishermen are able to handle only 35 or 40 feet of line, but with practice they could easily work their range up to 60 feet or more.

* * *

By special study and practice, experienced tournament men can cast 100 feet or more with ease. In the distance fly event in tournaments the record cast is 183 feet.

In casting for distance start from the 4 o'clock position. Apply power to the rod up to the 12 (vertical) position and then allow it to drift back to 11. Coming forward, apply increased power between the 11 and 3 o'clock positions, then let the rod drift down to 4 to start another backcast.

When you are getting the feel of your rod and line, look at an object 200 feet or more in front of you. You will see your line going away from you in a narrow loop. Release the line from your left hand and you will find the momentum will pull the coils of loose line from the ground or from your hand to give you an additional 20 or 25 feet.

The fisherman who has been using main strength and awkwardness will be surprised at the results he gets from orderly practice. He will develop a good sense of the rod's spring and of what his line is doing at each stage of the cast. It is important that the grip be not too tight.

* * *

Through all the practice, regardless of your immediate problem, there should be a constant and almost instinctive feeling for accuracy.

Tomorrow—Tournament Casting

Mansfielders Will Compete

Mike Linta, Jim Sawyer In Penn Relays Today.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Several college cinder path and field stars from Ohio were present today in Philadelphia and Des Moines for the annual renewals of the blue-ribbon Penn and Drake relays.

The Ohio competition was headed by Gilbert Dodds, crack Ashland college distance runner, who was entered in the two mile race scheduled at Penn late this afternoon.

Dodds who has been creeping closer to the nation's best two-milers for the last two seasons has "the best chance of winning this event of any of his attempts in the big time," according to Ashland Coach George Donges.

Jim Sawyer of Ashland college, a Mansfield boy, also was entered in the race.

Mike Linta, of the pole-vaulting Mansfield, O., family, carried the principal hopes of Ohio State to bring back one of the fancy wrist watches awarded first place winners at Penn. Linta took the Butler relay and Big Ten indoor pole vault events last winter but will have to stretch to grab the Penn trophy. The winning height of 13 feet 9 inches there last year was three inches better than Linta's best Big Ten leap.

Ohio State also has four relay teams. High Jumper Andy Jones and Discus Tosser Al Zack at Philadelphia. At the Drake meet in Des Moines, Ohio State is represented by Howard Ell, javelin thrower and Al Hurnat, sophomore hurdler.

Cincy To Try Again

Reds Have Expectations of Regaining Clutch on Cubs Today.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Brought up short and face to face with the fact that they're only human, after all, Cincinnati's Reds have great expectations of regaining their clutch on the Chicago Cubs today.

What Paul Derringer couldn't do yesterday Gene Thompson must try again today. Claude Passeau, beaten by Thompson last week, is the Cubs' pitcher.

It was neither snow nor rain nor flood that stopped the Reds and Derringer yesterday for the first time this year—just the cunning right arm of a once great pitcher now on probation from the Wrigley doghouse, Dizzy Dean, Phil Wrigley's $185,000 speculation, just had the Reds bamboozled for the last eight of the nine innings and the score was 4 to 2.

They call it a nothing ball that he throws now, but the Reds know right well that it's nothing they could hit solidly. It isn't fast and it doesn't hop, skip, or jump, but when the Reds swung, only half of it was there.

The Reds started out on the high road to victory but wound up on a country lane marked "no outlet." They had two runs in the first inning on walks to Bill Werber and Lonnie Frey, Ival Goodman's single and Dean's wide throw of the same, and a long fly by Harry Craft. After that the closest they came to a score was Ernie Lombardi's double in the eighth.

Derringer meanwhile was having troubles. He got through the first inning on five pitched balls, all strikes, and survived the second despite loaded bases with none out.

In the third the Cubs brought in three runs, all they needed, on a walk to Herman, single by Galan and Leiber, an infield out, and Cavaretta's line single.

* * *

The game was Derringer's first loss, outside of the world series, since Aug. 10, when the same Cubs beat him on the same field. He was also wild. He walked two men.

Report Pytlak In Cleveland

Fans Predict He Will Sign Before Indians Leave.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Mysterious Frankie Pytlak, the last major league holdout, was "somewhere" in Cleveland today and many fans predicted he would sign before the Indians leave tonight on an extended road trip.

The Tribal catcher was automatically suspended last midnight by the American League for failing to agree to terms within 10 days after the opening of the season. Reinstatement from such a ban, however, requires only the formality of approval by William Harridge, league president, or Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Club officials said Pytlak, who arrived from his Buffalo home yesterday, had not contacted them.

President Alva Bradley has declared the catcher "could sit in Buffalo all season" if he refused to sign for $8,000. At first Pytlak flatly refused to consider any sum beow his 1939 salary of $11,400, but this week was quoted as saying he would accept "any figure over $8,000."

Blues Bank on Ernie Bonham

Need Right Hander to Win Association Pennant.

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— If Kansas City rides to another American Association pennant, it may be on the good right arm of Ernie Bonham.

Ernie delved into his pitching repertoire again yesterday as the race entered its second week and blanked the Louisville Colonels, 3 to 0, in 12 innings. It was his second straight shutout and ran his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 21.

Bonham and Yank Terry each gave up six hits in their brilliant duel.

At Indianapolis Lloyd Johnson, whose 16-inning marathon Sunday failed to yield victory, returned to pitch a seven hitter to whip Milwaukee, 3 to 2.

Victory sent the Indians into a second place tie with Minneapolis which pounded three Toledo pitchers for 16 hits and a 10 to 3 decision.

* * *

In the other game Columbus notched its second straight triumph, defeating St. Paul, 10 to 9, after a six-run Saint uprising in the eighth. Pete Hader had to be relieved in the big eighth, but received credit for the victory, his first—after 17 losses—since last May 27.

Ohio State to Open Baseball Season

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The Ohio State university baseball team was to tangle with the Big Ten's first-place Illinois nine today in the first game of a two-game series. It will be the Bucks' third attempt to open their season.

Meanwhile, Larry Snyder's track speedsters divided their talents, part of them heading west to the Drake relays, the other half to the Penn relays.

The Buck polo squad defeated Auburn yesterday, 8-to-2, at Ohio State. Captain E. Kennedy smacked home five tallies.

Heroes and Goats

(By International News Service)

HEROES — Gerald Walker, who doubled with the bases filled in the ninth to give Washington a 7-6 victory over Philadelphia; Dizzy Dean, who pitched five-hit ball as the Cubs stopped the Reds; Pinky Higgins, whose homer with a man on gave Detroit a 4-2 triumph over St. Louis.

GOATS—George Caster, Philadelphia pitcher, who allowed the Senators to score six runs in the ninth inning; Joe Callahan, Boston Bees pitcher, who failed to get a New York Giant out before being relieved in the first inning.

BROWNS SELL CATCHER TO BOSTON RED SOX

2 Relays Draw 1,400 Athletes

Mansfield, Wesleyan Events Open on Same Day.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— More than 1,400 Ohio high school track and field athletes start their annual hunt for medals, cups and wrist watches Saturday as they compete in the 14th annual Mansfield Relays and the ninth annual team competitions at Ohio Wesleyan university.

For the first time in history, the two classics come on the same day, thereby slashing both fields. A year ago each of the relays attracted more than 1,000 youths, but indications are that Saturday's Delaware contests will draw about 800, with over 600 competing at Mansfield.

At Ohio Wesleyan, Columbus North will defend the title it won a year ago when it scored 32 points to nose out Springfield by half a point and break Toledo Scott's three-year reign. Upper Arlington, winner of the Class B crown the last four times out, will try again.

The Mansfield events are not divided into Class A and Class B, and all events are on an individual basis except the relay races. The relays attracted 89 schools from five states last year.

* * *

The Wesleyan meet, which had 28 class A and 34 Class B teams last year, had 20 in Class A and 32 Class B on the 1940 list.

TRADITIONALLY AMERICAN

The water power that turned the crude wheels of neighborhood grist mills seventy years ago is now harnessed to giant turbines that deliver power to many states.

The formula by which George Wiedemann brewed fine beer for his neighborhood seventy years ago still controls the production of Wiedemann's fine beer. Today in the great group of buildings that now constitute the Wiedemann Brewery this beer is brewed and bottled for distribution through the best dealers to the discriminating people of many states. Wiedemann's beer approved by four generations always satisfies. Call for Wiedemann's by name.

LEADING ISSUES DOWN FRACTION IN MART TODAY

Republic Steel, U. S. Rubber Are Prominent on the Early Retreat.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market ran into light selling today and leading issues stepped down fractions to more than a point.

Prominent on the early retreat were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Chrysler, Anaconda, Western Union, N. Y. Central, International Paper, Sears Roebuck and U. S. Rubber.

Bonds and commodities were irregularly higher and foreign securities markets about steady.

The report of Bethlehem Steel, coming after yesterday's close and showing $3.02 a share for the first quarter against 17 cents in the comparable 1939 period, apparently was in line with the expectations of boardrooms.

Not so pleasing was the survey of Dun & Bradstreet which observed that retail activities for the country as a whole were somewhat spotty this week due partly to unseasonable weather conditions.

HOLD-UP TRIO SENT TO O. S. R.

Get Indeterminate Sentences For Slugging and Robbing Cafe Operator.

robbery and we can't minimize the seriousness of it."

Questioned by Judge Huston, Carbeau said he couldn't give any reason for getting involved in the crime, adding that he had learned his lesson and was ready to go straight. He is a nephew of Schmutzler by marriage.

Highly educated and holding a high-salaried position with a firm in his home city, Carbeau admitted he "tipped" off his two companions that his uncle (Schmutzler) often carried large sums of money from the bank to his restaurant. The youths admitted they had planned the hold-up for several weeks.

As the time for it approached, Carbeau said he wanted to "back out, but I was in it too deep then and I knew I'd be involved anyway even if I didn't go along with them."

He waited in a car on Walnut street while Justime and Cusato struck Schmultzler over the head with a stuck and grabbed his money bag.

In his plea to the court, Atty. O'Donnell praised the work of Police Chief Meade K. Bates in apprehending the trio three days after the hold-up and recovering all except $20 of the loot. O'Donnell said the remaining $20 had since been restored to Schmutzler.

When she pleaded guilty to an indictment for carrying concealed weapons, Betty Bland, 25, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail. Judge Huston suspended 60 days of the sentence and ordered her to return to her home in Ironton when the sentence is up. The girl had a small pistol in her purse when she was taken into custody in a North Main street night club

Enter Innocent Pleas.

Others who pleaded innocent when arraigned today before Judge Huston were Edward Corson, accused of grand larceny; Robert Harper and Carl Glenn, indicted for non-support.

Five other defendants named in indictments, including John W. McGugin, charged with arson, and Harold Rolf, indicted for second degree manslaughter will be arraigned early next week, Judge Huston said.

Deputy sheriffs late yesterday arrested George Boubary, 49, rear of 211 North Diamond street, on a secret indictment charging non-support. He also was to be arraigned later.

Suicide Pact Carried Out By Father and Daughter

TRAGIC STORY OF FRUSTRATED LOVE CLIMAXED

Divorced Mother Refuses to Return Home; Couple Die In Fume-Filled Car.

(By International News Service)

CULVER CITY, Calif.—In a dreary epilogue to a stark drama of love frustrated, the bodies of a father and daughter lay in a Culver City morgue today.

The suicide pact of Henry Brown, 38, and his school-girl daughter, Ida, 17, threatened six weeks ago, had been carried out, police reported.

The father and daughter died in each other's arms, huddled together in an automobile into which carbon monoxide fumes from the car's exhaust pipe had been led through a hose.

They ended their lives, police said, because there was no hope of a reconciliation between Brown and his divorced wife, Mrs. Rae Brown of Los Angeles.

Last March Brown and the girl told Mrs. Brown that unless a reconciliation could be effected, they would end their lives. Mrs. Brown had them arrested, but after both assured authorities the threats were a hoax they were released. Ida, who had been living with her father since the divorce, returned to live with her mother.

But yesterday the man and the girl proved that the suicide pact was no hoax.

Brown wrote a passionate note of farewell to his ex-wife in which he repeatedly protested his love for her, while the girl wrote to her mother:

"Mother, you could have given me and dad happiness . . . instead of having to be on earth and holding hate in my heart forever for sending daddy to his death, I am taking the easiest way out with him . . . you could have saved us. . . ."

ORGANIZES FOR FUND CAMPAIGN

Humphryes Committee Hears Smaltz Explain Work of Sharing Agencies.

An enthusiastic Community Fund meeting was held last night in the display room of the Humphryes Manufacturing company when the committee of each department from the plant heard Clyde K. Smaltz, general chairman of the Community Fund campaign, talk on civic values.

There were about 50 men from all parts of the plant at the meeting. The room had been decorated in Community Fund flags and banners and a large thermometer, which will record the plant's contributions from day to day, was displayed.

The thermometer will be placed at the entrance to the plant where employes can watch progress of the drive in their own factory.

Richard Fensch, chairman of the Humphryes committee on Community Fund, presided and introduced Smaltz. The general set up of the Mansfield Community Fund was explained as well as the work done by each agency and the important influence each one has on the community.

After the talk, there was an open discussion and question period. Cards for each worker in the plant were distributed to the proper committees and today each committee began the work of contacting the men throughout the factory.

The Campaign Fund committee at Humphryes is made up of Fensch, chairman; M. A. Downs, Glenn Lucas, Carl Brock, Mike Dinger and Guy White.

been taken by the commission to handle the funds in accordance with a recently enacted state law which gives the board the right to disburse the funds.

Payment of firemen's pensions amount to about $8,900 annually. There is a balance of about $8,500 in the fund and another $7,058 will be derived from the tax levy this year.

The law allows the pension board to draw up to three-tenths of a mill from tax sources. This would amount to $15,000 annually for payment of pensions and would mean that the firemen, on that payment basis, could build up a $7,000 annual surplus in their fund, for investment purposes.

Under the present system, the city has been able to use for other general operating purposes, the funds held back, pending future demands for pension money.

PUBLISHERS TOLD NEW DEAL UNJUSTLY FIGHTS BUSINESS

NEW YORK —(AP)— Utilities Magnate Wendell L. Willkie disagrees with what he says is President Roosevelt's definition of a "liberal."

Addressing members of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association last night, the Commonwealth and Southern corporation president said Mr. Roosevelt had raised the issue of "liberalism" in a recent speech.

"From his viewpoint," said Willkie, who is considered a possible dark-horse candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, "he made the issue very simple:

"All New Dealers are liberal; all others are reactionary."

Willkie declared that all definitions of the word must include:

"The liberal is a mon who believes in freedom for himself and for other people."

The utilities leader and William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors' Corporation, joined in a charge that the New Deal has unjustly punished business to the detriment of the whole country.

Willkie said the New Deal had "drained the vitality and confidence" from industry and has turned to "denounce it for its failure to recover and make wild charges concerning a 'strike' of capital.

Knudsen declared that "this idea of having everybody get so poor so nobody can get rich is not going to work in the long run," and contended that "business needs a lot of encouragement."

BANDS BLARE, VENDORS SHOUT AS 'CIRCUS' OPENS AT Y. M. C. A.

Amid the shouts of vendors selling their wares, the blare of bands and smell of sawdust, the first "circus" to visit Mansfield this year opened in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night before some 200 people.

The event, first to be staged at the "Y" in 10 years, is sponsored by the Phalanx fraternity, and will be repeated again at 8 p. m. today.

Although there are no horses, elephants or wild animal acts in the show, it still retains its "big top" flavor with a number of clown acts presented by members of Mansfield's Hi-Y clubs.

The lone animal act is presented by William Duffner of Ontario and his trained dogs. A skit, representative of the gay nineties is presented by the Phalanx fraternity and Beta Kappa Tau sorority, dancing, acrobatic and eccentric numbers are presented by students of the Margaret Speas and Marty Hogan dance studios.

Music during the performance was presented by Smart's accordion band and a band composed of junior high school students. Tonight a German band from Senior high school will furnish music in front of the "Y" before the performance starts.

Never Misses Opportunity To Speak Well of "Vendol"

Farmer's wife near Mansfield is grateful for wonderful relief obtained by taking this popular medicine. Relieved constipation, indigestion, gas in stomach.

MRS. JOE H. PALMER

"I was a victim of constipation for a long time and took about all the things suggested to me for it but Vendol has proven the finest thing I ever tried," said Mrs. Joe H. Palmer, residing on route five, Mansfield, wife of a prosperous farmer well known all over the neighborhood, to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store.

"When I wasn't regular it caused many troubles. My head would ache, tongue showed a white coating, breath became bad, had a brassy taste in my mouth every morning and I just felt tired and sluggish all the time.

"Another result of this constipation was indigestion, sour stomach, gas, acid risings, bloating, and 'heartburn' and got me to where I hated to have to eat knowing how I'd suffer later.

"Vendol was so popular and highly praised by good people all around here that I began taking it along with the little Vendol laxative tablets and that was exactly what I needed.

"It cleared out my bowels thoroughly, so I kept taking it and with this complete evacuation I began to feel like myself again and now I never have a headache, dizzy feeling, pain or stomach upset. Vendol is wonderful so I never miss a chance to speak well of this excellent medicine."

In many cases of indigestion, sour stomach, dizziness, sluggish, "all in" feeling, pains in the back and limbs, the cause can be traced to constipation or need of a kidney diuretic. Vendol, an extract of finest roots and herbs with alkalines added for extra benefits, gives gratifying relief from constipation in an easy, pleasant way. Give it a chance to help you.

See the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., and he will explain all about this reliable family medicine. Vendol is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

FAMOUS FRENCH TROOPS ENGAGE IN NORSE FIGHT

ditionary force confirmed the news.

There is no risk in mentioning the name of Namsos, where not a living soul remains of the original population.

Virtually the entire town is a blackened ruin. I watched an old Norwegian who returned to Namsos from his place of refuge, hunting through the ruins of his home while tears streamed down his cheeks. I can attest that not even Viborg at the end of the Russo-Finnish war looked as bad as Namsos.

The only remaining large building in Namsos is the town's hospital, where the French have established a war hospital which will not be bombed.

This was guaranteed by three German prisoner-pilots, who unanimously stated that German bombers have strict orders to respect the Red Cross.

The French military doctors seem to trust the Germans on this point and have made a huge red cross in the snow outside the hospital.

The French troops now have disappeared from Namsos and only a couple of officers and soldiers are left.

It is reported that when the French forces landed at Namsos, those not sent direct to the Trondheim front were swallowed up by the woods far from the town, suffering no losses despite heavy machine-gunning by German planes.

French officers gave me details of the landing operations at Namsos. They said the harbor does not permit larger ships to move directly to the quay. Therefore the troops were landed from smaller boats which carried them during the night from the transport ships anchored in the fjord.

There the transports made excellent targets for the German aerial machine-gunners, but the French suffered no losses while the Germans lost three planes and one submarine.

Around 4 a. m. yesterday I was rambling along a bad Norwegian road when I spotted groups of soldiers in Europe's best army—the French Alpine troops.

Like shadows in the dim morning light, all looked small and dark in their brown uniforms.

None of the Foreign Legion remains behind the front. They all are at the firing lines at Steinkjer and other points.

That the French are using this most famous part of their army in Norway was revealed to me by a French officer. When I asked how desert soldiers could stand the winter climate still prevailing in Norway he told me proudly:

"The Foreign Legion stands everything. It goes through ice and fire and no one defeats it."

Naturally the Legionnaires are not in their colorful and popular uniforms now, but their uniforms still differ greatly from those of other French troops. They wear beige color and yellow caps and green-gray uniforms.

Reports I have received from different military authorities make it clear that the Legion and other French, British and Norwegian troops will have a hard task during the next few days.

The German attack forces are making two circling maneuvers to embrace or surround the Allied forces.

German warships have landed further reinforcements in Trondheim fjord near Steinkjer, and a struggle north of the town is raging fiercely. Other German troops are advancing along the west side of Snaasa.

It is reported definitely that a German force landed from the sea at a point north of Namsos in order to establish a front line behind the Allies.

In connection with German radio reports concerning successful transportation of new troops to Norway, three German officers who have been taken prisoner said the Germans are able to bring 3,000 troops from Denmark to Norway each day.

Each big transport plane carries 30 fully equipped men. They are able to land quickly. After the plane has landed the soldiers are discharged within a few minutes and the plane takes off at once for a new trip.

I travelled with these three German officers through a storm to an evacuation district. Only once did they seem to lose their attitude of superiority.

That happened when they saw a young Norwegian woman standing weeping at the roadside with her shivering, homeless children. She had fled when the small town of Grong was bombed and had lived with her ten children for three days in a railroad tunnel.

When she saw the Germans in uniform she fled in horror and hid behind a house. This sight was more than the Germans could stand. His superior air lost and white of face, one muttered:

"Is this the way they regard us here?"

WESTERN UNION INDICTED FOR RACE SERVICE

Conspiracy Against Federal Lottery Laws Charged By Chicago Grand Jury.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—A federal grand jury investigating alleged "bootlegging" of horse race information since dissolution of M. L. Annenberg's Nationwide News Service, Inc., today indicted the Western Union Telegraph company and 18 individuals for alleged conspiracy to violate federal lottery laws.

The jury returned three indictments, two charging the lottery conspiracy and the other accusing a group of the defendants of conspiracy to violate the 1934 federal radio communications act.

Western Union was named in one indictment with 11 individuals whom government prosecutors charged were attempting to supplant the service Annenberg dissolved last November after he was indicted for alleged violation of lottery laws in transmitting race betting information across interstate lines.

One indictment charged defendants with operating a miniature outlaw radio station for transmitting results from a telephone base to a club where bets were placed. Government attorneys said this was the first time radio had been brought into the gambling picture.

The government charged that the new service was operated as the Continental Press, with business headquarters at Cleveland, and wire headquarters at Indianapolis.

Included with Western Union in the first indictment were:

James M. Ragen, sr., Chicago, former operating head of Nationwide and now under indictment with Annenberg on the lottery charge and for alleged evasion of income taxes.

Arthur B. McBride, Cleveland taxicab operator and alleged head of Continental.

Lionel C. Lenz, Cleveland, technical chief of the wire network.

Thomas F. Kelly, Cleveland, brother-in-law of McBride and former Nationwide branch manager at Baltimore.

Morris F. Wexler, Cleveland, former distributor of Nationwide service for Ohio.

CHAPTER XXVI

"Do not laugh yet," he reprimanded her sternly, shoving her over to the further wall. "There!" He flung his hand up to point out on the wall a beautiful painting of a mother and child. "Did you ever see a more beautiful woman in all your life, or such a lovely looking baby? But of course you didn't. Elizabeth and Rosalie were the two loveliest people in the world. They—they were my wife and child!"

Elaine gasped as she stared dumbfounded up at the picture. "But —but you told me you were never married."

He laughed shortly. "Only a fool tells everything. But yes, I was married. I was married to the loveliest woman in all the world. Did I say that before? Well, it doesn't matter. Nowhere on the face of this earth were there two people as happy as Elizabeth and I—at first. And then she met a tenor. Tenors are nutty people and this one was just nutty enough to be charming. He fascinated Elizabeth and for a time I was afraid she was going to leave me.

"Well, the baby came, and such a baby. We were drawn closer than ever before and for a while the tenor was out of the picture. Well—to make it short, Elizabeth soon became tired of it all and began to run around with the tenor again. One night, when I arrived home, I found a note pinned to my pillow. She wrote that since I refused to give her a divorce she was leaving me; that she was taking the baby and going to England with the tenor. Only one boat sailed that night Elaine, but before I could get to the pier it had left on its last voyage. It—it was the Lusitania."

Elaine laid a sympathetic hand upon his, knowing without saying so that his wife and child had perished in the marine disaster that shocked a world.

"Come!" Monticelli brushed her arm aside and led her back to the tanks of fish. He waved his arm about the room, a pleased smile on his lips. "For awhile I was grief-stricken; I felt that the world had come to an end. I decided then and there that I was going to be as hard and merciless as Elizabeth and the tenor had been. I was going to do all sorts of things—instead—I became interested in fish! Fish are such lovely creatures, you know. So warm and tender and faithful, and after awhile I even managed to forget Elizabeth and the baby entirely. Elaine Warburton, most people have 'fish' of some sort—and you'd be surprised to learn how much it helps to have them."

Elaine nodded her head, looking with interest from one tank to another. Her brow furrowed into deep lines. "Then you think that my singing would prove as helpful to me as the fish did to you?"

"Not at first," he said sadly. "If it were as simple as that everything would be fine. Would you like some real advice?"

Elaine had the feeling that he was going to propose something drastic. But what difference would that make? She had to forget Eric. He was gone from her life now, forever; remembering him would do no good.

"Get plastered?" Monticelli roared, eyes flashing. "Go out and get drunk. And meet new people. Do that instead of bottling up all the sick feeling inside of you."

Without waiting for her to make a reply, he pushed her out of the room and down the stairs. It wasn't until Elaine was walking down the street that she realized he had told her just what he had done before he became interested in fish. But of course such a procedure was not possible for a self-respecting girl. There surely must be other things she could do without drinking after all, she just wanted to tone herself up so that she could sing; she'd forget Eric in good time. Just now what she needed was gayety and excitement. But perhaps in the final analysis, it might help for her to go out and "get plastered."

"If you do, I'll never speak to you again, Elaine," Jane threatened furiously. "I think that some day I'll go down and give that music teacher a piece of my mind. He ought to be ashamed of himself."

"A good bat does nobody any harm," Jack O'Malley said with a grin. "Especially when the heart is sore. Like a good linament . . ."

"If I ever catch you using too much liniment, Jack O'Malley, you'll find plates bouncing off your head," Jane threatened. "All Elaine needs to do is to go out. All week long she's stayed cooped up in here, and she's ready for a little excitement."

"Eric would be only too glad to take the colleen out," the big policeman pointed out laconically. "Shure an' he's sorry for kissin' the other colleen an' Elaine has punished him enough. An' besides, it ain' no crime to kiss a beautiful lady; tis a man's duty."

Elaine looked at him. "Has Clara been here?"

Jane nodded her head. "She stayed for an hour this morning waiting for you to come back. She told me it was very important for you to get in touch with her."

Probably she wanted to lie some more. To tell her that it was just an accident or something. Elaine turned wordlessly to the couch.

Jane's voice was soft, when she spoke again and her eyes were filled with a strange elation. "Elaine, if you really want to go out, there's Melvyn. He's crazy about you."

Yes, there was Melvyn. Good, steady, reliable Melvyn. Melvyn who was always waiting around. Melvyn whom she had refused to go out with time and again during the last month. But she didn't have to turn him down now. She was no longer engaged to Eric. She could go anywhere, see any one, do anything she wanted to, she was free now, and Melvyn—Melvyn was nice.

" 'Twill be a sad day if you take the ass's advice," Jack said with a doleful shake of his head. "Shure, an' maybe Eric did wrong to kiss Clara, but he's sorry for it now. If you start goin' out with other men, well, he'll be takin' a flyin' machine or something back to California."

"Good riddance if he does!" Jane exclaimed savagely.

"Yes, good riddance, Elaine echoed in her heart. The further away he went the better it would be. Once he was thousands of miles away she would forget him.

The cottony white cloud drifted lazily across the brilliant blue sky—just a cloud, but it was free. A robin winged its way from tree, chirping merrily as though it found life very good and very sweet—just a robin, but it was free. The fly buzzed busily about the window of the room, darting up towards the ceiling, then hurtling down towards the floor as though testing the strength of its gossamer-thin wings before venturing into the great outdoors—just fly, but it was free. Ten-year-old Billy Gircke saw all these things and shook his head in wonder. It didn't make sense. The cloud, the robin, the fly, were all free, but he, a man, one of the masters of the world wasn't free. He was in durance vile!

He pushed his wheel chair away from the window and scowled as he glanced about the small, cheerless room. For the ten-thousandth time his eyes fell upon the gray bedstead, the stiff backed wooden chair, the ceiling from which a piece of plaster had fallen, the four white walls, and, finally, the door. How long ago had it been since Miss Caruthers slammed it angrily shut? Only a couple of hours, he guessed; they hadn't served supper yet and he'd been jailed as soon as school was over. But—his face blanched—maybe they weren't going to give him any supper. Perhaps Miss Caruthers had decided to starve him to death! That wouldn't be civilized, of course, but Miss Caruthers was a woman and no woman was civilized.

A sudden thought brought a smile to his worried face. Dr. Stuart wouldn't let him starve to death. He and the doctor were pals and if Miss Caruthers really tried to kill him the doctor would put her in her place. After all, she was just the chief of the nurses and he was a surgeon, and she would have to take orders from him.

But as quickly as the smile had appeared on his lips it fled again for he had another distressing thought. Maybe Dr. Stuart would say he shouldn't have poured salt in Miss Caruther's hair! But no, Dr. Stuart would't say that. He was a surgeon and he knew a lot about science and he would appreciate the fact that he had simply been experimenting on Miss Caruthers. All scientists had to experiment. How could you tell what salt would do to a lady's hair until you tried it out?

Billy whirled swiftly around as the door swung open. His eager eyes noted first the well-filled tray and then the girl who was carrying it. Was she a new nurse? But of course not; if she was she would be wearing a uniform, and besides, she was too pretty to be just a nurse. He watched her with solemn eyes as she placed the tray on the white-enameled bedstand.

"Thank you very much for bringing my supper," he said gravely, "but you have to go now. I'm in Dutch."

Elaine smiled as she walked across the room and sat down beside the bed. "But Dr. Stuart told me to come to see you," she said, equally grave. "He said to be sure to visit his best pal."

Billy pondered over this for a moment and then, nodding his head, pushed his wheel chair over to the stand. "Oh, you're Miss Warburton. Doctor Stuart told me about you. But gee, he said you were the prettiest girl in the world!"

"And she is," Melvyn exclaimed, coming into the room. He smiled gayly as he perched on the end of the bed. "You should learn to be more gallant with the ladies, Billy, my lad."

The boy sniffed, as he cut his roast beef. "I ain't ganno be gallant 'cause I hate women."

Elaine grinned, finding herself liking the boy despite his obvious disapproval of all members of her sex. She glanced mischieviously at Melvyn.

"Perhaps, then, we'd better go. Since Billy hates all women it's certain that he doesn't want me here. And I wouldn't think of ruining his dinner."

A Worthwhile Investment

THE WORKERS in the 21st annual Community Fund campaign, which officially opens Monday, have chosen wisely the theme of "Invest" rather than "Give."

As a result Mansfield citizens will be asked to invest $57,500, during the next week, in this city's youth, which is the city's future.

Most persons have a feeling of satisfaction after subscribing to their Community Fund; a satisfaction which comes from a good deed, a humanitarian gesture, or generosity toward his fellow man. How many feel that their Community Fund pledge is not a humanitarian act but a common sense investment for themselves?

Nor does the investment have the element of chance that goes with so many investments. You are certain to get your returns in an orderly, progressive city, with a minimum of modern juvenile problems; a city whose future is insured by its trained youth.

There are nine welfare or charitable agencies affiliated under the Mansfield Community Fund, and seven of them are concerned with physical, moral and religious training of the boys and girls who are the citizens of the future. Investing a day's pay in these boys and girls is as smart as investing in an annuity. In fact, it is a civic annuity.

We live in a world of changing methods, and boys and girls no longer receive all of their training in the home. Whether you like it or not, whether you approve of it or not, this is true; and many of our youth would receive no training at all if it were not for the character building agencies which are a necessary part of every progressive community, while many others receive physical and moral training which supplements that which they are given at home.

The Mansfield Community Fund asks only $57,500 this year from a city whose annual payroll, both industrial and mercantile, is in excess of $19,000,000.

It is a comparatively small sum to invest, but it will bring big returns.

'Inevitable' War

ONE of the biggest jolts given the dove of peace lately has been the testimony of Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig, chief of naval operations. He told a senate committee that he believed war between the United States and Japan was "inevitable."

He considers Japan in the same state of mind as Germany. He is convinced that the war group in command at Tokyo plan to conquer the Philippines, French Indo-China, the Dutch East Indies and other rich sections of the Far East.

We would be warranted, he thinks, not only in protecting the Philippines by force, but in using force, if necessary, to preserve the integrity of China.

Most Americans today would hardly go so far as this. They might agree that we should fight to keep the Japanese out of the Philippines, even though we are willing to give up the islands if their safety is assured.

But would we go to war for China, because of our friendship for the Chinese people and our desire to prevent Japanese monopolization of that country? Would we go to war to preserve the status quo in the East Indies, thus safeguarding the Philippines and helping our British and Dutch and French friends in that region, and incidentally keeping the Japanese from growing too great and powerful?

Perhaps the present answer is—not yet! We can't see far ahead, in this present confused and perilous state of the world.

Trade In The Family

AMONG the best customers of the United States are our territorial and island possessions. Last year Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands bought $235,000,000 worth of goods from the continental U. S. A. They bought three times as much from us as did all the Central American countries together, and 73 per cent as much as all of South America, although the latter region has 89,000,000 inhabitants and our possessions only 2,500,000.

What did Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands buy of us? Just about everything from automobiles to chewing gum. The complete list would show the most diversified assortment of products which this country shipped to any customer in the world.

If trade with European and Asiatic countries becomes increasingly restricted because of war, or their own dwindling power to buy, we will grow more appreciative of the peaceful regions with which we can still trade, our own possessions and territories and other countries of this hemisphere.

New Slant On 'Young Man's Fancy'

A NEBRASKA doctor, who is also a nutrition expert, springs a new theory about springtime love. It isn't necessarily love that arouses this vernal emotion going by that name, he says. It's "spring fever due to vitamin deficiency," and mostly curable by taking enough of the proper pills.

This seems to be carrying the vitamin fad to dangerous extremes. Supposing that the doctor is right. And suppose that all these boys and girls mooning around so sentimentally in the springtime were to raid the drugstores for spring-cure vitamins Number So-and-So. And suppose the cure worked.

The results would be dreadful to contemplate. No spring sentiment, no poetry, no June weddings. And where would that leave the human race after a couple of generations of such disillusionment and vitamin-addiction?

Word comes that an Augusta, Maine, farmer raises everything required to feed his family—which probably does quite nicely without grapefruit.

Vermont's oldest active barber is approaching the century mark—and may remember when some of the radio jokes were new.

Japanese militarists still think that if they puff themselves up and talk very loud, everybody will be scared.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — While other Presidential candidates are setting themselves up in the state primary alleys and throwing themselves a strike or a gutter ball, Aspirant Robert A. Taft is quietly picking off Republican national convention delegates by a method as unsensational as a door-to-door brush salesman's.

At the Ohio senator's headquarters in the Raleigh hotel here, henchmen claim he already has the promise of 300 state delegates, will have twice that many before the boys get together in Philadelphia in June. Some political commentators agree on the first figure.

Big, quiet, mathematically-minded Senator Taft is using a pre-convention technique as old as the hills . . . direct contact. In the nine months or so since he let his name be bandied about for top spot on the 1940 Republican signboard, he has made more than 300 speeches, has set up an organization or "contact force" in every one of the 48 states.

Although lacking in that remarkable memory for first names and plain faces by which President Roosevelt and General Farley repeatedly knocked the hinterland politicos for a row of votes, Senator Taft has been showing himself as often as congressional duties would permit. The object is twofold: (1) To convince hoped-for constituents that he's a good deal more than the unstarched stuffed-shirt which opponents would make him out; (2) to hammer home in plodding speeches his conservative theories of government.

His First Assistant.

SECONDARY defense in the Taft campaign is Mrs. Taft. Martha, as the folks back in Ohio call her, is daughter of a one-time solicitor general of the United States and what her husband hasn't in stump-speech pyrotechnics, Mrs. Taft has.

Already a veteran of Ohio politics in her husband's behalf, Mrs. Taft has mapped out a pre-convention itinerary that reads like Mrs. Roosevelt's "my three months." Her first four weeks of speech-making for Husband Bob cover the ground from Massachusetts to West Virginia, with sorties into Pennsylvania and Indiana.

Possessed with a dramatic sense which her straight-talking, studious husband lacks, Mrs. Taft has a penchant for drawing applause from her audiences, where, with the same lines, the Senator would get none. Aiding considerably in whipping up an assembly is her sense of humor.

Back in Cleveland on the home-front, directing the flood of literature and playing liaison officer for the whole Taft drive, is David S. Ingalls.

Ingalls flies his own airplane, covers thousands of miles, keeps headquarters here in a constant dither answering telephone calls between breakfast and dinner from cities a thousand miles apart. Ingalls, 41, is campaign manager. A former assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics (under President Hoover), he was known during the World war as the "navy's only flying ace"; won the D.S.C. and other honors before he was 20.

He Rings Doorbells.

IN THE personal conduct of his campaign, Taft has changed his technique not a whit from his tyro days. In Cincinnati he started out as a doorbell-ringing precinct worker, in spite of his family name and silver-spoon background. He's been ringing the bell ever since. As one commentator pointed out, the electorate "scoffs at him during a campaign, votes for him at election.

In his fight for the senate job, he beat colorful, glad-handing Judge Arthur Day for the nomination and, in the election, bumped New Deal-blessed Robert J. Bulkley off the track. Taft's weapons: 600-odd speeches, a reputation for integrity, a constantly colorless reiteration of his theories of government, and the assistance of Mrs. Taft.

Unlike many politicians, Senator Taft writes all his own speeches, mostly from notes stuffed into his pockets whenever an idea occurs to him. In his campaigning, he travels without a retinue, consults no one about what he is going to say, drives his press department frantic by failing to give them a transcript of his speeches more than an hour before they are made.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Mickey Rooney and Spencer Tracy have bobbed up in a political race, and here is why. . . . Not long ago young Mickey was starred in a picture called "Young Tom Edison," and shortly thereafter Spencer Tracy played the lead in another film that depicted the late, great Thomas A. Edison as a mature man.

Now forget about the movies for a moment. Harold G. Hoffman is campaigning for the governorship of N. J., Edison's state, and aiding him in the campaign is his 19-year-old daughter, Ada, who makes five and six speeches a night. . . . The former governor's opponent in this race will be Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison, who is now in the Pacific observing fleet maneuvers.

In Trenton the other night, where she was speaking, Ada Hoffman was asked what she thought of the coming race. "It ought to be a lot of fun," she said, "running against Mickey Rooney and Spencer Tracy this fall."

AFTER 13,000 miles in a trailer, which he has named "Grand Hotel," because everything happens to that trailer, Hal Kemp is back in New York and not quite sure whether traveling by plane and train isn't the best way after all. On his trip he ran into nothing but sleet and rain. At Asheville, N. C., he returned from a dance to find his trailer in flames. . . . Near Lula, Ga., it skidded on the roads and overturned. . . . Near Spartanburg, S. C., it was stalled for hours in a snowdrift. . . . In Opeloisas, La., he awoke with a staff to find his hotel on fire. . . . In Nashville, thieves broke into the trailer and stole a set of the band's uniforms. . . . At Johnson City, Tenn., Jack LeMaire, his vocalist, lost his overcoat in a restaurant . . . and driving in a fog near Indianapolis he ran through a farmer's picket fence. . . . Outside of this, not a single thing happened, except that two of his musicians got married on the trip, two others became fathers, and he, himself, celebrated his first wedding anniversary.

LESLIE HOWARD has an interesting confession in the current World Digest, and one that followers of this actor's career will find hard to believe. "I am one of those unfortunate people to whom any kind of public appearance is an embarrassment," he says. "I always sympathize with those wretched children who are made to exhibit their talents at parties. I myself never suffered thus as a child, for the simple reason that I was utterly devoid of gifts; but from the moment when, offered accidentally and accepted economically, I got my first job on the stage and sheepishly daubed my face with grease paint, I had an inner conviction that this was the most embarrassing occupation in the world. This belief, far from being modified by experience, I find to be only intensified with the years. I can conceive all women at all ages wanting to act, and I can conceive certain men of an adolescent age wanting to act, but the idea of middle-aged or elderly men getting any satisfaction out of painting their faces, putting on vent lumes and wigs and giving vent to their emotions in public is something I cannot understand."

Must Brides Boo-Hoo?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THAT new picture which Columbia is releasing—"The Doctor Takes a Wife"—there's something which should hit modern America where it lives.

Mr. Lou Smith, publicity director for Columbia Pictures, wonders what this column thinks about it. "Should a girl," says he, "marry a young doctor, knowing that she must wait until youth has departed for many of the pleasant things of life. . . . The first years of a young doctor's practice are rather lean ones. These, however, are the very years when his wife is young and craves entertainment, clothes and other luxuries which must wait until a time of life when the zest for living begins to wane and they cannot be so fully enjoyed. . . . As a perhaps not too fantastic way out of this situation, you might point out that since the government, through the RFC, grants loans to industrial organizations to tide them over their lean years, an agency might be established to do the same for young doctors—and this might also include lawyers and scientists."

Thanks for the sugestion, Lou, but I'm not going to use it. Personally I think it's about time we stopped hanging our private problems on the government and expecting the taxpayers to relieve us from the consequences of our own cussedness, laziness and stupidity.

All of which, I believe, applies perfectly to the predicament of the young doctor's wife. For it isn't the young doctor's salary that makes the trouble, usually, but the dear little woman's idea that she had been Done Dirt because she can't have a million-dollar's worth of coddling on a $1.75 romance.

TO BE quite frank, this notion that brides must go on acting and dressing like America's Sweetheart after they've presumably settled down to be somebody's regular missus, gives me a severe pain in the neck. Time was, and not long since, when the Town Belle expected to cut out her youthful capers when she donned the wedding veil. She regarded her home exactly as her young husband regarded his business—life's greatest opportunity and most serious prospect, worthy of every effort and sacrifice.

And if she didn't feel like that, she didn't get married—or stay married long. She couldn't eat her cake and have it too. She couldn't build a home and spend her time roller skating. And nobody encouraged her in the belief that she could.

I admit that times have changed, and that they have brought young women undreamed-of liberty and license. But homemaking hasn't changed. Human nature hasn't changed. And the dizzy dame who can't see that there's more adventure in starting a family than in "entertainment, clothes and other luxuries" had better keep out of the matrimonial market. She's as poor a sport as Joe Louis would be if he started crying for his mama and powdering his nose in the middle of the third round.

Nor does this indictment apply only to spoiled little girls who have had too much money and petting before marriage. It applies even more gravely to those of us who form that most powerful bloc on earth—Social Opinion. In our indulgence toward youth—in our own longing to stay young ourselves . . . in our infantile pursuit of pleasure. . . . WE ARE SPOILING THE KIDS OF THIS NATION ROTTEN. IF THE GIRL BRIDES OF THE NATION CAN'T BE BOTHERED TO SETTLE DOWN TO A REAL JOB OF HOMEMAKING IT CAN USUALLY BE TRACED TO THE FACT THAT MAMA HAS BEEN GADDING AROUND WITH THEM, DOING A SISTER ACT IN SOME HOTEL LOBBY INSTEAD OF COOKING A BOILED DINNER FOR THE OLD MAN.

"The Doctor Takes a Wife"—? Then it's a cinch she worked as hard to acquire the wedding ring as he did and she'd better face the consequences.

Friend and Neighbor

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A FARMER friend hurried out to get his mail, just as I drove by one rainy day. When I greeted him, he held up his hand for me to stop. I waited in the car while he finished the letter he was reading.

His face seemed grave and much concerned, but he smiled as he finished. Then he got in my car and laid the open letter across the wheel. "Read that," he said. "It's from our neighbor's boy who's in college. His folks have had hard luck, here lately—his mother's sick, and he wrote to me he'd have to quit school on account of funds. I haven't any children of my own, but I like to see ambitious boys get ahead."

"Dear Fred," I read. "Before your letter reached me, I thought I would have to give up graduating in June. I worried so about mother and I knew the hard fight Dad put up before he wrote for me to come home. He simply couldn't pay the nurse, the doctor and half my expenses, too. I'm working four hours a day at a restaurant down town, which makes half my expenses. I can't get my school work if I put in more hours there.

"You suggested N. Y. A. but so many boys need that worse than I do that I couldn't ask for it. I tried to conserve on food but I lost weight. I talked to the president of our school but there are so many requests for help that he could do nothing.

"When your letter came with your check for $50 more than I asked for, I could not believe it was real. I thought such things happened only in story books and dreams. Tomorrow I am going to send Dad a draft for the extra fifty. I used to think money didn't matter much, but right now every dollar looks as big as a cartwheel. How glad the home folks will be.

"Your good will and confidence in me are only the beginning of my good fortune. I have had, today, a promise of a job when school is out. I will be able to be at home after working hours, when I can help Dad on the farm, and be with mother in the evenings. If I board at home, I can pay you back, the first two months. If I didn't graduate, somebody else would get the job. So you see your kindness in time of need means to me many times what you have loaned me.

"Enclosed, you will find my note for three months. I know you will hold it, for my signature has no value at the bank, yet.

"Many thanks again for what you have done for me.

"Your friend and neighbor,

John S—."

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One of the most significant farm meetings in many months is scheduled for St. Paul tomorrow. Officially, its purpose is to spur congressional sentiment for the Jones-Bankhead Act lowering interest rates on loans from the Farm Credit Administration. Henry Wallace expects to address about 12,000 farmers on this subject.

Behind this, however, is an increasing cleavage between what Wallace once described as the upper one-third farmer group for whom his Agriculture department actually has done most of its work, and the two-thirds of under-privileged farmers who have been neglected.

Wallace has been trying to switch more aid to the two-thirds, and at this St. Paul meeting he is giving his blessing to the National Farmers' union. This is an organization which is considered radical, if not dangerous, by the Grange and the Farm Bureau.

These two pillars of farm conservatism—or at least their executives—have split wide open with Wallace over lower interest rates for farmers.

The reason remains a mystery: for this is about the first time farm leaders have shied away from the public feed trough.

Ed O'Neal, head of the Farm Bureau, is vigorously opposing the Jones-Bankhead bill, which would keep farm interest rates permanently at 3 per cent, instead of being boosted automatically on July 16 to 5 and 6 per cent.

Norman Tabor, head of the Grange, is also opposed—some of his critics say because he is a candidate for secretary of agriculture if there is a Republican victory in November.

Result is a storm of protest inside both the Grange and the Farm Bureau, many of whose members say: "Why should we pay $5 a year to these fellows to work against our interests?" There also have been many threats of resignation, and it looks like an even greater split than ever between the upper one-third farm group and the lower two-thirds.

No Farmer Dewey?

MIDWESTERN senators are telling about an incident which occurred after Dewey spoke in Minneapolis on his western tour. Shortly thereafter, Vandenberg spoke in twin-city St. Paul, and was visited by a group of farm leaders, who asked various questions. One was, "What do you think of the problem of the flax surplus?"

Vandenberg replied, "Flax surplus? What do you mean? We produce less than half of our requirement in flax, so how can there be a surplus problem?"

"You're right, Senator," the farmers answered. "We just wanted to see how much you knew about it. When Dewey was here, we asked him the same question, and he said, 'I regard the flax surplus as a very serious problem, and something should be done about it.'"

Southern GOP Delegates.

CHAIRMAN Guy Gillette's announcement that his senate campaign fund investigating committee is quietly checking up on outlays in midwestern states is only part of the story. What he didn't reveal was that his committee also is examining GOP "wooing" of delegates in the south.

Inner political circles have buzzed for weeks with stories about brisk undercover activity in this section. All the reports are similar on one point: that the Taft camp has the majority of the southern delegates. Dewey has some, but only a scattering.

Southern generalissimo of the Taft campaign is West Virginia's John Marshal, experienced delegate wangler who helped perform the same job for Hoover in 1928. Marshall's chief lieutenant is Perry Howard, colored national committeeman from Mississippi, who also is an old hand at rounding up southern delegates. He was indicted some years ago on political charges, but acquitted.

Taft managers admit extensive holdings of Southern delegates but insist they were secured on the up-and-up, without slush funds.

Note—Chief objects of the senate committee's scrutiny are Nebraska, where it is reported Dewey forces spent a large sum, and Wisconsin, where Garnerites are alleged to have dished out plenty.

Bass Drum Shearer.

THESE are great days for William Baldwin Shearer, the man who boasts that he broke up the Geneva naval conference ten years ago, thereby exploding naval disarmament.

Shearer is still going around town, calling himself the "big bass drum," and the other evening he secured as his dance partner Mrs. Lewis Compton, wife of the assistant secretary of the navy.

Mrs. Compton had been tipped off by her husbaid regarding Shearer, but she pretended not to know who he was.

Shearer seemed distressed. "But surely you know who I am," he said. "I'm William Shearer, the man who broke up the Geneva naval conference."

Mrs. Compton turned her pretty face to him, registering a Dumb Dora expression.

"Don't you remember?" he persisted. "Why, my picture was on the front page of every paper in the country!"

"Oh," said Mrs. Compton innocently, "that explains it. You see, I only read the funnies."

Census Changes Congress.

The new census is bound to cause some changes in congress. Some state will lose congressmen, some will gain, all as a result of the new reapportionment law. Here is an advance forecast of the states which will win, and those which will lose congressmen:

States gaining one new congressman: North Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Texas, Tennessee, New Jersey, Kentucky, Missouri and California.

States losing one congressman: Michigan, Kansas and Louisana.

States losing two congressmen: New York, Ohio and Illinois.

The house always balks at enacting reapportionment because members fear losing their seats. Chief credit for putting through this act belongs to North Carolina's quiet Representative Lindsay Warren.

Capital Chaff.

White House intimates are predicting that able Judge Bert Fish of Florida, now U. S. minister to Egypt, will get an ambassadorship soon.

Judge Fish is one of the few Christians ever permitted to enter Mecca, Mohammedan holy city. He was the guest of King Ibn Saud of Arabia.

Wiry, popular Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas receives such a huge daily flood of mail that he keeps six stenographers busy answering it. The bulk of the letters come from Midwest farmers. . . . In contrast to Navy brasshats who seldom use planes, General George C. Marshall is a constant air traveler. In his seven months as army boss, he has flown more than 30,000 miles, including a round-trip across the Pacific.

45 BUILDINGS IMPROVED IN COUNTY BY WPA

Construction and Renovation Activity Summarized In Director's Report.

Construction or improvement of 45 buildings in Richland county during four and a half years of WPA activities was reported today in Columbus by James L. Kelly, director of district six of WPA in Ohio, which includes the Richland county area.

Work done by the government agency, Kelly said, covers 18 school properties and recreational buildings in the county, but does not take in the large number of structures renovated by relief workers.

Buildings erected by WPA up to Jan. 1, 1940, which Kelly's report covers, includes a new shop structure at Madison township high school; picnic shelter houses at Prospect, Johns and Liberty parks, and a comfort station in Middle park.

Kelly's report disclosed that rehabilitation work, ranging from painting to heavy construction, in Mansfield included the finishing of the third floor of the city building; repairing two office buildings at the fairgrounds; repairing the courthouse and county jail; painting the interior of two schools; painting and repairing 15 barns at the fairgrounds, and landscaping at Hedges school.

In other parts of the county, Kelly said, WPA constructed a basement and painted the interior and exterior of the Lincoln heights school, and also painted five other school buildings in Madison township.

The program also included the renovation, painting of school building in Butler, Mifflin, Springfield township, and the reconditioning of the Bellville town hall, along with grading, planting and landscaping the grounds at East Mansfield school.

STOLEN MONEY FOUND BY BOY

CINCINNATI —(AP)— A Postal Telegraph messenger found $800 in stolen money and checks and it was with difficulty that rightful owners persuaded him to accept a reward.

He's Hiram T. Drake, 17.

He found the rain-soaked package in a gutter where apparently it had been dropped by a thief who took it from the Gentile Commission company late Friday.

"Shucks," he protested when officers of the firm sought to reward him. "I didn't do anything. It's your money."

Nazis Defeat Allies In Northward Drive

Retake Town of Roeros While London Admits 'Limited Withdrawal' at Dombaas, Farther to West.

Germans entrenched at Steinkjer, in the Trondheim zone.

Arrival of anti-aircraft guns and British fighting planes was reported to have helped offset the German air advantage.

The Allehanda published a dispatch from northern Norwegian headquarters which said that German attacks in the Steinkjer sector, where the Nazis hold the village, had been repulsed "with heavy losses" in the last two days.

The battle is still in progress, the dispatch said, with the British holding out at the town of Haere, south of Steinkjer, while allied reinforcements move from Namsos against the German lines north of Steinkjer.

Berlin reports were that the Germans in the Raeros area hoped to effect junction with a German force advancing from Trondheim, said to be only 30 to 40 miles away. This would cut Norway in two from Trondheim to Sweden.

The German reports as to the Trondheim column were indefinite and it was not plain whether the column was supposed to be advancing by way of Stoeren, where the Allies were reported to have a strong force, or was trying to advance due south along the frontier along the mountains, almost roadless rout from Storlein, the frontier station of the Trondheim-Sweden railroad.

Here, as in the Steinkjer region, 50 miles northeast of Trondheim, the situation was one of great liquidity, and a complete turnover was possible at any time. Allied and German forces were facing each other a few miles apart at Steinkjer. Instead of being in the logical positions, the Germans south and the Allies north, the Germans held Steinkjer while the allies were to the south.

Thus the Germans might be cut off from their Trondheim base and the Allies might be cut off from their Namsos base, depending on which received reinforcements first.

The fighting planes (reportedly based at three Norwegian airdromes) were counted on as an important factor in holding the Allied toe-hold in central Norway which, if lost, would force the Allies to operate mainly from positions north of Trondheim.

Norwegian and allied leaders were greatly cheered at the reported arrival of British fighting planes in Norway to challenge the mastery of the Nazis in the air.

"Our retreat has ended," the Norwegian high command proclaimed in a statement to the troops. "Our allies are here in force. The time has come to turn and attack."

There was no inclination by either British or Norwegians to minimize the difficulties they face in the struggle against German domination of Central Norway, but there appeared to be a tone of greater confidence as the result of arrival of strong reinforcements and equipment — especially the fighting planes—to move against the long German lines.

In Berlin, where the official news agency said Nazi reinforcements were still arriving in Norway in large numbers and that the German grip was being tightened, there were also further expressions of confidence.

But on the main fighting fronts, the situation appeared less discouraging from the allied viewpoint, reports indicated.

French Foreign Legion forces were reported moving from Namsos, where Allied reinforcements and supplies were still landing, toward the German positions at Steinkjer. British advance troops which previously had advanced past Steinkjer toward Trondheim were thrown back by Germans in an encircling movement and dug in at the village of Maere, which is south of Steinkjer.

The British at Maere, however, had succeeded in holding up the German advance northward from Trondheim for four days and reinforcements moving from Namsos on Steinkjer were expected to attack immediately if the battle for that town is not already in progress.

Nazis Reinforce Troops at Trondheim.

BERLIN—(U.P.)—The high command said today that more troops and supplies had reached Trondheim, from where a German force is driving southeastward attempting to join a German motorized force sweeping north from Oslo, to cut Norway in two at its middle.

The high command's communique admitted that British planes had attacked the Trondheim airport and damaged several planes there.

It said British planes had bombed Oslo again last night, "but failed to effect any military damage, while the civilian effect in the city is not yet established."

German newspapers have been bitterly protesting against alleged British bombings of civilians lately, leading to belief in some quarters that retaliation is planned. It has been charged that since April 12 the British have bombed "civilian objectives" at Heiligenhaesen, in Schleswig-Holstein, Oslo twice, and "the bathing beach" at Meningstadt on the island of Sylt, where Germany has a seaplane base.

French Fears for Sweden Unabated.

PARIS—(AP)—The French war ministry said today that several German troop ships had left Baltic ports, reflecting fears of an invasion of Sweden.

A ministry spokesman said that it was not known whether the Germans were bound for Sweden or to reinforce German troops in Norway.

This question, he said, is "tomorrow's secret."

French military officials said Wednesday that German troops were being embarked at ports nearer Sweden than Norway, and there were reports then that transports were leaving.

The French said that these reports had been confirmed today.

The spokesman added that British and French warships were alternating in patrolling the Skagerrak, entrance to the Baltic sea from the North sea. A "very tight" blockade is being maintained, he said.

U. S. Puts Norway on 'Cash and Carry' Basis.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— American munitions sales to Norway went on a "cash and carry" basis today as presidential proclamations extended operations of the neutrality act to that embattled country.

The action also had the effect of cancelling the $10,000,000 credit recently granted to Norway by the Export-Import bank.

President Roosevelt invoked the neutrality act in a series of three proclamations issued yesterday at Warm Springs, Ga. The documents did not mention the status of Denmark, which the Germans occupied simultaneously, with the start of their Norwegian invasion.

As the conflict abroad brought this fresh adjustment of American foreign policy, the commerce department reported that the war had sent American exports 51 per cent ahead of last year.

During the first quarter of 1940 exports have exceeded imports by $410,349,000—or almost half of the favorable trade balance of $859,000,000 recorded for all of 1939.

The most notable export gains were in airplanes, iron and steel products.

Urges Americans to Leave Rumania.

BUCHAREST, Rumania—(U.P.)—The United States legation has sent letters to all Americans in Rumania advising those "who have no compelling reason for remaining to consider the possibility of returning to the United States as soon as feasible," it was learned today.

The letters emphasized that "the legation, while it perceives no immediate reason for alarm, believes there is little prospect of being able to assist Americans safely to evacuate the country once hostilities have begun, nor is there any likelihood of the legation being able to foresee its outbreak sufficiently in advance to issue a timely warning."

United States legations in Hungary, Jugoslavia and Sweden have sent out similar letters in the past week.

GEORGIA OPENS FIGHT TO STOP NIGHT RIDERS

'We've Got Klan Scared,' Says Official After Sentence of Flogging Leader.

(By International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga.— Vigorous prosecution to stamp out Ku Klux Klan night riders was promised today on the heels of the first conviction in a long series of actions to halt floggings attributed to them.

The first guilty verdict was returned late yesterday against Henry Cauthon, a Baptist deacon and asserted leader of a group of Klan riders. Cauthon was sentenced to a year on a Georgia chain gang, six months in jail, and a fine of $1,000.

The red-haired deacon was indicted on 17 counts of assault and battery in connection with 17 different floggings, but was found not guilty on all counts except one —the beating of P. S. Toney, a CIO union organizer.

Cauthon is also charged with kidnaping Toney, and will be tried later under a statute which provides from 4 to 20 years in prison if convicted. Sixteen other asserted members of Klan whipping crews have been indicted, and Solicitor General Daniel Duke promised that all cases will come to trial.

Duke declared:

"This (Cauthon's conviction) is just the beginning. We will fight with every force we have to bring to justice this group that has set itself up as a Fulton county (Atlanta) gestapo.

"We've got the Klan scared now. We've unmasked them and forced them into the open. We won't stop until they're all gone."

Cauthon's sentence, the maximum possible under his conviction, was pronounced by Superior Judge Hugh M Dorsey amid gasps from the courtroom spectators.

ORGANIZE FOR RELAYS IN '41

This Year's Classic on For Tomorrow and Officials Get Set for Next Year.

With the 1940 Mansfield Relays, scheduled to be run tomorrow at Stadium field, not yet in the record books, plans were under way today for the 1941 classic.

At a meeting last night of members of the Citizens' committee, Dr. W. E. Wygant was was returned to the position of general chairman, a post he held for a number of years. D. O. Meese was elected assistant general chairman.

Otho McCormick was elected financial chairman, with Ned Brooks as his assistant.

The 1941 meet will be held April 19, a week earlier than this spring's event, it was announced by Dr. Wygant today.

Other officials selected last night are Dean Eckert, treasurer, and Tom Scott, publicity chairman. The latter position is new in the organization.

HISTORIC TOWN LEFT OFF MAP

Protest Brings Re-location 100 Miles From Site.

RALEIGH, N. C. — Mayor Jack McMullen of historic Edenton, on the banks of the Chowan river, protested that his community had been omitted from the North Carolina map issued by the state department of conservation and development.

So the department issued another map.

Edenton, this time, was placed midway between Wanchese and Manteo, on Roanoke Island—about 100 miles from its proper location.

HEAR TALK ON HEALTH TOPIC

Kiwanians Told of Public Health Measures and How They Save Lives.

"Life Conservation and the Community," was the subject of a talk given by Michael Kley, welfare representative of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company of New York, before the Kiwanis club at a meeting in the Mansfield-Leland hotel yesterday noon.

Kley cited the steady gain in control of smallpox, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, diphtheria and other contagious diseases and said "the practical application of modern methods of public health has saved many lives, decreased human suffering and made possible great advances in the social welfare of the people," he said.

In reviewing the development of the health movement from the earliest days to the modern standard of community service, he quoted statistical figures showing the resident death rate in Mansfield last year as 11 per thousand population, and the birth rate at 23 per thousand.

"Health authorities indicate a dollar per person should be appropriated for public health service in the city of this size and character if the fullest measure of conservation of life is to be obtained," he added

AREA COMMANDER

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Brig. Gen. Dana T. Merrill, commander of Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., is in command of the fifth corps area today. He took charge temporarily at Fort Hayes as Maj. Gen. David L Stone relinquished command and left for Tacoma, Wash., to make his home.

CENSUS PROBLEM

Recheck of 5 Per Cent of One Population Puzzles.

BEND, Ore.—How, mused Catherine G. Nelson, census supervisor, can she comply with a federal law requiring a recheck of 5 per cent of the population of each town in her district.

politics and put back in the hands of the local officials who know best who needs it," he said.

Attacking the New Deal national defense policies, he said the administration has crippled private industry which would have to be drawn into immediate use to provide war materials if this country should be involved in the European conflict.

Others who spoke briefly at the rally included State Senator P. H. Rogers of Grafton; Joseph Jamison of Lorain and Wallace Barnhill of Ashland, candidates for state senator; Fred C. Hotes of Berea, candidate for state auditor, and Judge H. W. Jewell of Delaware, candidate for the Ohio Supreme court.

More than a score of candidates for county offices were introduced by Mrs. Carl Spangler, head of the county Republican women's organization, who presided.

ADMIT LOSS OF 'FIRST TRICK'

Allies Concede Initial Victory In Norway to Germans But Predict Final Triumph.

in Norway" and pointed out Britain might be having difficulty getting bases in the rugged Norwegian territory.

These sources pictured the war in Norway as settling down to a battle for Trondheim, on the outcome of which the whole future course of the Scandinavian conflict may depend.

"A treacherous invasion," one British source said, gave Germany all the initial advantage.

"We knew we would have a difficult time and certain of our forces probably are having difficulties, but don't think for a moment this is going to have a detrimental effect on the Allied effort in Norway."

Great Britain is counting on friendly relations with Russia and Japan as well as increased fleet activity in the Pacific to chink the Vladivostok crack in the Allied blockade of Germany.

Informed sources today said better relations with Japan were being sought and conciliatory gestures made toward the Soviet Union in an about-face from the bitter hostility existing during the Russian-Finnish war.

Britain and Japan were reported nearer an agreement on the disposal of Chinese government-claimed silver which is held in the British and French concessions at Tientsin, scene of British-Japanese tension for ten months. The British also are endeavoring to maneuver their Pacific blockade ships so as not to offend Japanese feelings.

In renewing British-Russian trade pact overtures, Britain sought assurance Russian imports would not be trans-shipped to Germany and that only a minimum of Russia's own products would be sold the reich.

The Russians were said to have agreed to the first stipulation but to insist their nation's internal economy requires normal dealings with Germany in Russian products. The British, however, may try to outbid Germany for Russian goods.

Figures given out by the ministry of economic warfare showed 1,000 tons of various goods are shipped daily from Vladivostok to Germany by way of the Trans-Siberian railway.

CHEVROLET'S Exclusive VACUUM-POWER SHIFT

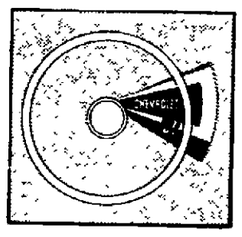
-easiest of all gearshifts to operate...

80% Automatic—Only 20% Driver Effort!

because ITS ACTION IS EASIEST!

Tests prove Chevrolet's to be the easiest steering column gearshift to operate. Compared with the two cars next in sales, Chevrolet requires only 2.8 ft.-lb. of effort for a cycle of shifts, against 8.5 for Car B and 14.8 for Car C.

because ITS LEVER AND ITS "THROW" ARE SHORTER



Because Chevrolet's gearshift is operated by vacuum, it requires less leverage. The lever and its travel or "throw" are the shortest, and that means the quickest shift. Length of Throw: Chevrolet, 4¼"; Car B, 7½"; Car C, 10⅜".

because IT'S EFFORTLESS IN TRAFFIC

Stop and Go—Red and Green—Halt! Start! That's traffic. And that's where Chevrolet's easy shifting is appreciated. Vacuum does 80% of the work; only 20% is done by the driver. No tugging, no shoving!

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Here are adventures that really happened and the stories of the men that made them happen. Junior and senior high school boys and the girls who like boys stories will find these heroes well worth their acquaintance.

NANSEN, by Anna Gertrude Hall—Fridtjof Nansen was a curious young man of Norway. Once when he was in Greenland he found a piece of wood which he thought must have come from far away Siberia. But how did it get there? That question began the expedition during which men lived without impossible hardship in a board imprisoned in Arctic ice for two years and travelled across the Arctic circle not far from the North Pole because of the ocean current. Nansen was an explorer, a statesman, and a humanitarian. This remarkable beautiful book shows that he was also every inch a man.

HUNTERS OF THE GREAT NORTH, by Vilhjalmur Stefansson—Mr. Stefansson has written the story of his own trip through northwestern Canada and Alaska when he was a young man. He learned how to avoid freezing his face at 40° below zero and he learned to forget to salt his fish, even when there was salt that he could eat. Every experience is thrillingly written for older boys and girls.

LATEST LIBRARY BOOKS INCLUDE NEW BIOGRAPHY

Character Study, First Novel By Nelson Hayes, Placed on Shelves This Week.

A fictionized biography, with real nineteenth century flavor and humor, a character study of an Australian go-getter and Nelson Hayes' first novel, about a small island off Jamaica, are among the new books of fiction placed on the shelves of Mansfield Public library this week.

Recent non-fiction books include an enlightening one about law and its practice, the story of King Carol's rule in Rumania and a survey of health conditions in Nazi Germany.

The new books include:

YEARS OF GROWTH by Harold Sinclair is a continuation of his "American Years." This book is a fictionized biography of the community of Everton, Illinois from 1861 to 1893. The story has a real nineteenth century flavor which, with a good share of humor, will recommend it to readers.

FRAMED IN HARDWOOD by Eric Lowe is the character study of an Australian go-getter. Utterly ruthless in his race for power, he is unable to gain what he most desires, a woman's love.

DILDO CAY by Nelson Hayes is a first novel, about a small island off Jamaica on which one family has lived as rulers for two hundred years. The setting creates an atmosphere of grim isolation.

Other fiction:

THE DAWN IS SILVER by Cleland;

SADDLE AND RIDE, Haycox; and TOMORROW THE ACCOLADE by Dietrick.

YOU BE THE JUDGE by Ernest Mortenson and illustrated by Alain is an entertaining and enlightening book about law. Mortenson cites numerous cases to illustrate the principles which lie behind the practice of law. He shows the dramas of humans in conflict which are connected with the origins of our laws.

ROUMANIA UNDER KING CAROL by Hector Bolitho describes that Balkan state which is looming up so important in the present international situation. He writes to rouse his country to aid the smaller.

HEIL HUNGER! by Martin Gumpert is a survey of health conditions in Nazi Germany. It shows how modern dictatorship destroys its own people.

Non-Fiction also includes:

PLANTING DESIGN by Robinson; BEST BROADCASTS of 1938-39 selected and edited by Wylie; RADIO AS AN ADVERTISING MEDIUM by Dygert; SO YOU'RE PUBLICITY CHAIRMAN by Fiske; TESTED DISPLAY IDEAS compiled by editors of Printers' Ink; DRIFTING DOWN THE ST. LAWRENCE, Bugbee; WITHIN GERMANY, Villard; PREPARATION AND DELIVERY OF SERMONS, Patton; ADMINISTRATION OF ADULT EDUCATION, Debatin; OCCUPATION IN RETAIL STORES, de Schweinitz; and ELBERT HUBBARD, Balch.

A gift to the library by the Saint Germain Press of Chicago is THE "I AM" discourses by Saint Germain.

Only the fool depends on what may possibly happen.

MISS TEETER FIRST TO BE JUNE BRIDE

First to Select Date During Traditional Wedding Month; Will Marry Clayton Frank on Parents' Anniversary.

MISS LENA MAE TEETER, with the announcement of her approaching marriage made last night, has the signal honor of being the first Mansfield girl to announce a June date for her wedding. Miss Teeter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Teeter, 141 Hammond avenue, will become the bride of Clayton W. Frank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Frank, east of Mansfield on June 1. This is also the bride-elect's parents' 28th wedding anniversary.

The private ceremony will be performed at 9:30 a. m. before the altar of the First Christian church. The bride will be attended by Miss Jean Seybold, and Russell, the brother of Mr. Frank, will serve as best man.

Duplicates of the marriage license concealed in the napkins revealed the coming nuptials to 20 friends last evening when Mrs. Teeter entertained in honor of her daughter at the family home.

Bridge was in play at five tables with prizes being presented to Miss Ann Fogel and Miss Marjorie Logan. Refreshments were served at a long table and three small tables. The larger table was decorated with a pink floral centerpiece and a three branch candelabra holding lighted blue tapers. The other tables were similarly decorated with pink and blue appointments.

Miss Teeter has been employed for the past three years in the office of Judge C. J. Anderson, while Mr. Frank is an employe of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

The 20 guests played crazy bridge, and prizes were awarded to the Misses Beatrice Kochenderfer and Bette Anderson. Luncheon was served at small tables following the games.

Miss Baker is the bride-elect of Tolbert E. Smith. Their wedding will be solemnized at 4:30 o'clock on the afternoon of May 4, with Rev. Peter Young reading the service before the altar of the First Congregational church.

TODAY marks the opening of the Third Lutheran Youth conference at Wittenberg college in Springfield, and about 400 young men and women from this state as well as Michigan, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia, will be on the campus. . . . So several Mansfield students at the school are more than busy with arrangements for the meet. . . . Richard Smith (son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith) is chairman of the publicity committee, while his sister, Mary Smith, and Grover Swoyer also are working on the conference. . . . Young Swoyer's parents are Rev. and Mrs. Grover E. Swoyer, you know. . . . And by the way, Richard is a senior at Hamma Divinity school, and he will be graduated in May. . . . Wittenberg will also mark Fathers' and Mothers' day over the week-end, and among those from here going down are Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Cropper, 468 West Third street. Their son, Paul, jr., is a Wittenberg sophomore.

Speaking of students, I have some more news for you about Elaine Schiller, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Schiller. . . . As I told you Monday, she appeared in a musical program for the faculty of Seton Hill college recently, and now she's in the midst of rehearsals for the school's annual spring concert. . . . To be presented Monday evening under the direction of Aroxie Hagopian, this program will offer classics, folk songs and nego spirituals—with a popular number featured for a surprise encore. . . . Elaine will appear as an incidental soloist in "Listen to the Lambs" by R. D. Dett, and in the first soprano section of the glee club.

The flowers that bloom in the spring (or more than likely those that don't bloom) have caused V. E. (Sam) Vining no little concern. . . . Much to his chagrin, his neighbor's tulips always have come up earlier than his, and because of the prolonged this year. . . . So in order to beat the other fellow, Vining went this year. . . . So in order to beat the other fellow, DeVine went down and bought himself some bright-colored artificial tulips—and they're "blooming" all along the edge of his driveway up on West Second street now.

THIS next week will be a busy one for Mrs. Wilford Scheifley. . . . She's leaving this week-end for Chicago, where she will work at the Sun Glo exhibit at the furniture mart—an annual event at the Merchandise Mart. . . . Then upon her return home, Mrs. Scheifley and her husband will go to Louisville, Ky., for the Kentucky Derby on May 4.

If you find any clothing or draperies that you want to discard while you're cleaning house these days, you can make all persons connected with the Children's Theater happy by saving these things for them. . . . From such cast-off garments, Mrs. E. C. Thompson and Mrs. Louis Meisse make the cutest costumes you've ever seen—so they'll be more than willing to stop after any such things you might have if you call them at Canal 5278 or Erie 4525.

GOODBYE and GOOD LUCK: That's what we're all wishing Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCaffrey, as they're moving to St. Louis, Mo., tomorrow to make their home. . . . Coming here from Columbus five years ago, Mr. McCaffrey has been transferred to the Missouri city by the Ferro Enameling company of Cleveland. . . . The McCaffreys, with their young daughter, Jane Ellen, will take up residence in University City (a suburb of St Louis), and since they've promised to return for frequent visits, we don't feel quite so badly about their leaving as we otherwise would.

He Smokes Pipe; She Objects

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The morning's mail brings a letter from a correspondent who tells me that her brother-in-law is urging his wife to get a divorce.

So desperate is this man to break his matrimonial bonds that he is willing to finance the trip to Reno, give his wife a spectacular cause for divorce, and see that she is taken care of for life. All he wants is never to hear from her again.

You know, of course, that men who decline to pay alimony, in certain states, go to jail, and that this man's wife may not lack adequate support, he is deeding to her a nice little piece of business property which will make her comfortable, whether she marries or remains single.

Now, what do you suppose the demand for this divorce was all about? There was no siren in the case, the husband wasn't stingy but gave his wife an ample allowance for the house and herself. He didn't drink—but he did smoke and extremely malodorous pipe.

The draperies, carpets, sofa cushions reeked with the stale smell of an old pipe, and the wife in question just wouldn't stand it another minute. She stormed, she sulked, she insisted that her husband go out in the cold, chilly streets in winter to smoke. During the first days of the honeymoon he was docile. Over snowy streets in winter and steamy hot streets in summer, he carried the solace of a not conspicuously happy marriage.

But toward the end of the second year he struck and actually sat on the sacred sofa of the living room, piled the cushions under his head, and smoked. So the gentleman who felt more like a foundling left on the doorstep of his home, which he maintained in great comfort, urges his uncongenial wife to leave him, set up any charges she pleases, only—get a divorce.

Probably the lady will enjoy her smokeless home for a few weeks or a month, and then she'll discover how madly she loved Tom all the time, and will be glad to have him back, pipe and all. She may become tearful as she remembers the pipe. Some wives do when they remember the foolish things which have brought about divorce.

A woman with a good husband, who smokes an objectionable pipe might be prompted, if only she had the gift of common sense—of deciding to do without heavy draperies. What's an old portiere to a good husband, anyhow?

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Dicky was at my father's side before he had reached the door, imperatively gesturing to Lillian and me to fall back a bit.

"I want to go up those stairs first," he said respectfully but firmly. "I want to make sure the guards are on the ob. You know Jack Leslie may have sent more of his beauties over to see what became of his first emissaries."

"If he has, I am sure my men have taken care of them," my father said dryly. "But I see your point, and grant it. If there is any trouble up there, you can get back down here more quickly than I can."

"Thank you, sir," Dicky said. Unbolting the door to the stairs, he opened it a crack and peered stealthily, motioning us to remain where we were.

I did not dare even to breathe a protest, but my heart thumped heavily as I watched him go up the stairway to the top door, on which he knocked with five short raps.

I breathed freely again as the door opened promptly, and one of my father's men in the doorway gave an affirmative answer to Dicky's low query, "All clear?"

My husband dashed down again, and put his hand under my father's elbow.

"Please lean on me, Dad," he said. "These stairs are difficult, and you haven't your strength back yet."

"I shall be glad to, my boy," my father said with surprising acquiescence.

"Ask them if they've heard any suspicious noises near the chimney," he said, and a few seconds later Dicky came up to the chimney, around which my father, Lillian and I were already grouped.

"Not even the squeak of a mouse," my husband declared, and my father nodded, with his eyes searching the face of the chimney.

"Please hold up that first map, Margaret," the Chief asked, and then he compared map and chimney, running his fingers along the rough stone surface.

"Of course, there's a hidden spring or mechanism which turns a part of this stone in," he said, "but we might go over it dozens of times without finding it."

"But you know exactly where the hidden stairway is, don't you?" Lillian asked.

"Yes, right here," he said, putting his hand upon the massive right end of the chimney breast.

"There's room behind here," my father said, "for a spiral stairway, and it must be there, and the door must be on one of these three surfaces."

"Suppose we each have a try at this," Dicky said. "Let's each of us go over every inch of the surface. It's going to be sheer luck anyway, and we probably each have a different touch, so we'll have four chances instead of one."

"Good idea," my father commented, and forthwith began exploring the surface of the chimney breast with fingers still deft and sensitive. But he could not find the hidden spring, and neither Lillian nor I had any better success, although we were most painstaking in our search.

Last of all, Dicky took over the task, and as I watched his sensitive artist fingers touching, stroking, pressing, probing, I found myself getting excited and breathless with the conviction that he would succeed where the rest of us had failed.

But the front and side of the chimney breast yielded nothing, and as Dicky moved around to the back, with only room for one person to stand comfortably in the space between the projecting wing of the chimney breast and the rear wall of the attic, I, watching his eyes instead of his fingers, saw them widen suddenly, and then the stone moved, slid back to a place inside the chimney, leaving a narrow opening through which we could see the top step of a spiral stairway.

STARTING DELPHINIUMS FROM CUTTING

In the spring the true gardener's thoughts lightly turn to delphinium cuttings, because the true gardener knows that spring is the best time to take cuttings from delphiniums, since at this time the plants are most vigorous.

Each cutting should have a piece of the crown attached to it, as shown in the illustration. Take cuttings which are from three to six inches long. Remove all opened leaves.

Plant the cuttings in a flat or frame outdoors and use clean, sharp, slightly acid sand. The cuttings will require shading at first from direct sunlight. As the roots begin to form, however, gradually allow more sunlight until finally they are growing in full sun.

In about a month's time the cuttings will have rooted, and they can then be transplanted into small flower pots and later set out in the garden.

Thought Creates Tasty Dishes

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

A LITTLE imagination, plus a little effort, can make luncheon a pleasant meal full of culinary interest, rather than a succession of snacks and any-old-thing, day after day.

Scrambled Egg Special and Vegetable Sandwiches are good to look at and good to taste. For the sandwiches use one-half cup each shredded carrot, shredded cabbage and shredded celery, and three tablespoons chopped watercress or parsley. Moisten with mayonnaise, season with salt and pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Spread on buttered slices of white bread, cover with buttered slices of whole wheat bread, and cut diagonally. For the scrambled egg dish, take seven stuffed olives (sliced), two tablespoons each chopped onion and chopped green pepper, two teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, one-fourth teaspoon salt, six eggs, six tablespoons cream and three tablespoons butter. Melt butter in a skillet and brown very slightly the sliced olives, onion and green pepper. Be sure the latter are chopped very fine. Add the eggs and cream, then the sauce and the seasonings. Stir all together and cook over low heat, stirring and lifting frequently until the mixture coagulates. Four servings.

If it is to be meat for luncheon, here's a good recipe. Hamburger Shamrocks is a new way to serve hamburger. Recipe is for one pound hamburger, one egg, one-fourth cup soft bread crumbs, one-fourth teaspoon each poultry seasoning and pepper, three-fourths teaspoon salt and three green peppers. Beat the egg, add crumbs, poultry seasoning, salt and pepper. Add meat. Cut eight rings, one-half inch thick from the green peppers. Pat hamburger mixture into the rings. Broil seven minutes on one side and six minutes on the other. Delicious!

For a tasty luncheon sandwich, mince sardines with broiled bacon and green peppers. Mix with mayonnaise. Spread on Boston brown bread. Top with sliced stuffed olives. Sprinkle with paprika.

Salmon with Sour Cream is a good dish, easy to prepare and packed with nourishment. Use one No. 2 can salmon, one cup thick sour cream and one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Break the fish into large pieces and put in buttered casserole, after removing any bits of skin or bone. Bake with cream in moderate over for 45 minutes. Serve hot on toast with a garnish of leman slices, parsley, tomato and paprika.

If the pantry shelf holds some jars of pickles and preserves, cold meats become a fine dish.

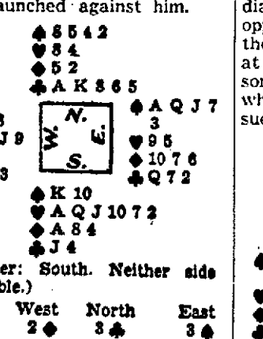
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

BEAT REAL DEFENSE

ANYBODY can make a sound contract if he is lucky enough and gets enough help from the form of the defense put forth by his opponents. The real player is the one who can find a possible way to succeed against whatever defense the opponents offer. What he does is dependent upon the kind of effort launched against him.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	2 ♦	3 ♣	3 ♠

In a team of four match, the West player at one table led the diamond K, and when he saw the 6 and 4 fall on it switched to the spade 9 to the A. East returned the heart 5. South hopped in with the A, cashed the diamond A, ruffed his last diamond and later lost only to the heart K, making his contract.

At the other table South's teammate in the West led the 9 of his partner's spade suit to the A. The heart 9 was returned to the A, the diamond A played, then the 4 to the J. West cashed his heart K, removing dummy's last trump, then took the setting diamond trick.

South at this table blamed his defeat on the defense he got, but in the post-mortem West showed him how he might have made his contract anyway. Upon winning the second trick with his heart A, he should have led a small club and let it ride, then later discarded his diamond losers on the clubs. The opponents could have spoiled that though by returning a club, but at least that play would have had some chance in luring a mistake, whereas the course actually pursued proved hopeless.

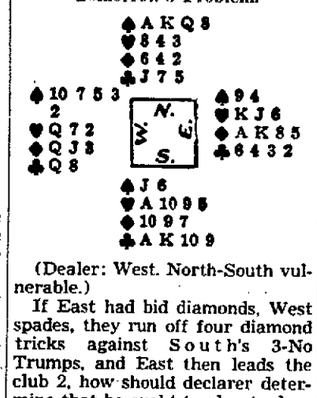
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If East had bid diamonds, West spades, they run off four diamond tricks against South's 3-No Trumps, and East then leads the club 2, how should declarer determine that he ought to play to drop the Q instead of finessing?

Society

Games were played yesterday when Mrs. Roy Wilkins, Lincoln Heights, entertained members of the Merry Ten club at her home. The winners were Mrs. William Robertson and Mrs. Harry Theirlien. Refreshments were served by the hostess, and Mrs. Robertson invited the group to come to her home in Lincoln Heights May 28 for a meeting.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, April 27.

The lunar transits for this day point to sudden and startling developments, which may descend with the velocity of a whirlwind and come from unexpected sources. A complete revolution in the affairs and fortunes may be looked for, with change of surroundings, associates and interests. This would seem very propitious and promising were it not that the entire situation may be surrounded by treachery, deception or fraud. Extreme precaution, vigilance and sagacity should be exercised. Read and sign papers carefully.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden and surprising change, with radical influences affecting the life, its fortunes and destiny. They may anticipate complete change of environs, objectives and associations. These should benefit greatly if prudence, vigilance and keen insight into sudden opportunities are exercised, since there are dangers from fraud, deceit, trickery and misrepresentation, especially in connection with writings, papers or documents. Be alert to romantic situations suddenly precipitated.

A child born on this day may be alert, quick, shrewd, original and have splendid creative ability. But it may be disposed to substitute expediency for principle unless it is trained early in prudence and integrity.

Narcissi, hyacinths, tulips and lilies received as Easter gifts should be saved for planting out in the garden. Water such plants moderately until the foliage dries.

Ohio Girls' Industrial School Head 'Welcomes' Probe

BIRTH REPORT AT DELAWARE INVESTIGATED

Sherwood Scouts Rumor Girls Were Recruited for Life In Vice Houses.

DELAWARE —(AP)— Supt. Rose Beatty asserted today that she would "welcome a fair, impartial investigation" to clear up charges that immorality and degeneracy flourished among inmates of the Ohio girls' industrial school.

"If there is anything wrong here, I'm the one who wants to know about it," Mrs. Beatty declared. "These charges are a reflection on the school. The girls and their families are concerned about it. For their sake and the sake of the school this matter should be cleared up."

Meanwhile, it was disclosed in Dayton that two state welfare department employes spent two days there seeking information about a Dayton girl reported to have given birth to a child in the industrial school

The investigators, Victor Monte, London prison farm investigator, and Walter Bellar, Ohio penitentiary guard captain, were expected to report late this week to welfare department officials on the outcome of the Dayton inquiry and others of a similar nature.

"There is nothing wrong at the school, as far as I know," Mrs. Beatty said, adding, however, that with a "class" of more than 600 girls "It is impossible for one superintendent to know everything that happens."

She considered asking Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood to order an inquiry into the current allegations, but doubted that it was her place to decide whether such a probe was necessary.

Earlier this week, Sherwood discredited reports that inmates of the school were "recruited" for vice houses.

The women's state committee of Ohio on welfare, health and education asked Gov. John W. Bricker yesterday to investigate the rumors and dispel them if proven false.

Ohio Political Campaigns Hit Full Speed

Up and Down THE STREET

A score of Mansfielders, more eager than ever to hear good music after the concert here by Gladys Swarthout and a week of Metropolitan opera in Cleveland, last night drove to Findlay to hear Giovanni Martinelli. The concert was part of Findlay's civic music series and the Mansfielders heard the famed Met star under the "exchange" privilege which membership in the local association gives them.

Some of the Republican candidates had to shut off their life stories right in the middle last night when their talks were limited to two minutes each at a party rally so more than 20 of them could be paraded before the audience. Floyd Dent, area scout executive, has never been known to be a musician, but to his surprise last night along with 400 Boy Scouts and their fathers who attended the annual father and scout dinner at the Westinghouse, he found out that among other things he was also the director of an orchestra. Painted in large black letters on front of the bass drum used by the orchestra during the program was the name, "Floyd Dent and His Hay Shakers."

In the past 20 days she has laid 10 eggs—one every other day—that have a stucco surface. At least that's the best way to describe the surface of the eggs, which are rough and pebbly like stucco. The hen is six months old.

EXAMINER SAYS ESTATE LIABLE

Asserts Late Orrville Banker Invested Cemetery Funds in Worthless Trusts.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— State Examiner C. H. Swain today held the estate of the late William L. Des Voignes, Orrville banker, liable for $13,184 in connection with his handling of funds of the municipally-owned Crown Hill cemetery, of which he was treasurer and trustee.

A report filed with the state inspection bureau said Des Voignes invested cemetery funds in worthless trust and leasehold certificates between 1925-28 without approval of the village council. The state repaid the money. Other cemetery trustees were exonerated.

Dewey Hanes, former clerk of the Arcanum village school district, was held liable for a shortage of $1,434 in his accounts by Examiner S. K. Armstrong. He resigned as clerk, repaid the amount and has been indicted, the report said.

The audit covered the period from Oct. 7, 1938 to March 23, 1940. Most of the money unaccounted for came from receipts of the school cafeteria.

CRAZY STUDENT WOUNDS TWENTY

Takes Own Life After Holding Police Off With Shot Gun.

BURLINGTON, Iowa — (U.P.) — Henry H. Reeb, 36, a mad student of chiropractics, wounded at least 20 persons during the two hours he held his barricade with a shot gun, police estimated today.

Reeb, to avoid an inquiry into his sanity, barricaded himself in his apartment yesterday afternoon and fired at policemen, firemen and some 1,000 bystanders. While police still were trying to silence him, he used the gun to kill himself.

Most of the wounded were not seriously hurt. They had the buck shot removed by private physicians and today police were trying to compile a list of them.

DAVEY SEEKING NOMINATION BY TOUR OF STATE

White Already Busy on Hunt For Votes; Donahey Says Still Not Interested.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—With only three week-ends left before the May 14 primary, candidates for state and congressional nominations prepared to begin campaigning in earnest today

Verbal barrages and counter attacks are expected in the hotly-contested Democratic gubernatorial race. There are seven candidates in this contest.

Former Gov. Martin L. Davey will open his campaign for the nomination in Canton tonight. After that he will tour the state, speaking daily until the day before election. An opponent, former Gov. George White, has been campaigning for more than a week.

In Washington, U S Sen Vic Donahey announced he had no interest in the proposed write-in campaign to "draft" him as the Democratic nominee for governor. The campaign is being sponsored by Charles H. Hubbell, candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Informed of the plan, Donahey countered: "All I can say is that I hope it will fail."

On May 4, Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, Democratic presidential possibility, will speak in Lima, and on May 10, Postmaster General James A. Farley, another White House aspirant, will speak in Cincinnati.

At the Ohio State bar association convention in Columbus, plans were outlined to conduct a poll on candidates for nominations to two state Supreme court terms.

A committee will study qualifications of the candidates. Those the bar deems are best fitted for the posts will be endorsed and the results will be given publicity throughout the state.

PLAN MEETING

Voters' League to Hear County, State Candidates.

The Mansfield League of Women Voters will hold its second open meeting for candidates Thursday when a number of primary candidates are presented at the American Legion hall at 8 p. m.

The League, a non-partisan organization for political education, will present the primary candidates of both Republican and Democratic parties for the offices of county representative, probate judge, and county commissioners.

Each candidate will be allowed two minutes in which to present his campaign platform. No candidate will be permitted to make any reference to his opponents.

Questionnaires have been sent out by the League to all candidates for the primary elections, in which each one was asked to give a brief biographical sketch and those for the state assembly were asked regarding their stand on civil service and aid for the aged.

Mrs. Ruth Grover, Oberlin, regional representative of the Ohio League of Women Voters, will be in charge of the meeting, open to both men and women.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Tales From Times Square.

Even in the big town, people who go to the movies live the story, and radio fans get to know the characters they hear but never see. They love the heroine, hate the villian, and thrill to the hero, and when a program gets steady space on ether, its stars become "neighbors" to the folks who listen.

On Sunday night's Jack Benny-Rochester program, the script called for Benny to instruct Rochester to telephone him the next morning at nine. And it happened that on Monday, a little after noon, Rochester had occasion to call his boss at the Sherry-Netherland.

"Who is calling Mr. Benny?" the hotel's phone operator asked.

"This is Rochester," replied the colored comedian in the identical rasping tones that get such howls on the air.

"Oh," tittered the operator, "did you remember to call Mr. Benny this morning at nine?"

Great Oaks.

A famous singer, who is on intimate terms with the royalty of several nations, spent lunch time at the Colony the other day regaling a tableful of friends with "inside" tales about the romance of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

There was the time, she recalled that his heart affair with Thelma, Lady Furness, ended, and Thelma's interest switched to the Prince of India. One day the Duke called Lady Furness on the telephone and asked her to have dinner with him, but she begged off, saying the whole thing was finished and there was nothing left to be said, and she'd prefer not to rake over the ashes.

Windsor was adamant. He had to talk to her. Finally she said she would dine with him, but only if he would allow her to bring two friends with her. Reluctantly, he agreed, and she came to dinner—with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Simpson.

Dinner was very dull. The Duke was constrained. Lady Furness was uncomfortable, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson were a little bored.

Now it happened that His Royal Highness had the habit, at table, of putting out his hands and filching food from anybody's plate. Unconsciously, at one joint in the meal, he reached out and plucked something off Lady Furness' plate.

Impulsively, Mrs. Simpson leaned forward and slapped the back of his hand.

"Naughty boy," she said, "don't do that! That's dreadful."

His Royal Highness lifted his eyebrows, then laughed. Lady Furness laughed. Mr. Simpson laughed. The dinner party relaxed, became a success.

And Mrs. Simpson became the Duchess of Windsor.

Item.

Harry Richman and his wife, Hazel Forbes, were sitting eating in the Versailles the other night when suddenly Harry threw his arms around Hazel and kissed her loudly.

"Excuse me," he whispered apologetically to the spectators at the next table. "I'm just retracting a rumor."

Haberdashery.

Teddy Powell, the bandleading songwriter, made the boys in the Kit Kat laugh a few evenings ago with his moanings. Teddy is a sort of minor Lucius Beebe, and when it happens that he buys a suit that doesn't please him once he gets it home, he just won't wear it, even for carrying the torch. This sartorial tragedy occurred not long ago, and Teddy, who couldn't bear to see the error hanging in his clothes closet, tore it off the hangar and gave it to one of the musicians in his band.

Two nights later, a burglar invaded Powell's apartment—and stole all his clothes.

So Teddy went to the musician and bought back his hated suit—for five dollars!

Uncertain.

Lou Mindling got gay the other afternoon and dropped into a Western Union office to send a singing birthday telegram to Hitler.

The Western Union girl scanned the name and address on the blank, but didn't flick an eyelash

"Of course," she said, "we cannot guarantee to deliver it."

Club.

A couple of weeks ago a beautiful blond with an unidentifiable foreign accent joined the afternoon knitting classes at Bloomingdale's, chatted animatedly with the housewives, and introduced herself as Miss Sell.

During one of the more recent sessions the conversation turned to figures and diet, and all the ladies agreed Miss Sell's figure was perfect. They wanted to know how she got that way.

"Exercises," Miss Sell confided, and proceeded to demonstrate.

Some of the more portly ladies tried the calisthenics, and now every day, in the midst of the knitting session, the beautiful Miss Sell gets up and leads some of the funniest figures in New York in a series of strenuous exercises.

The ladies still haven't caught on that their physical culture friend is Hildegarde, the internationally famous chanteuse who took up knitting when she was on a two-week silence cure for her voice!

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—As you approach Stage 21 at Warner Bros. you note the customary No Smoking sign is emphatic. It says Positively.

Inside, this seems exceedingly strange. Not only that no one is smoking, but that the stage is entirely filled with water. It's crazy. On most other stages smoking is permitted, under strict conditions. On a stage full of water, for "The Sea Hawk," you get tossed out (or maybe dunked) if you so much as reach in your pocket in a suspicious manner.

"It's the waves," the friendly policeman explains. "They're highly inflammable."

Unless you are hardened to remarks like that, you might slip toward the exit hastily but quietly so as not to enrage the inmates. When you've been around town a while, though, you don't even say "Huh?" Inflammable waves seem perfectly credible phenomena—which indeed they are.

The "waves"—used in the background of the big set where the real water ends—are the device of Anton Grot, the art director. The real water, during a scene, is kept in a state of realistic agitation by the activities of half a dozen workers. These men, operating in unison with fine rhythm and patience, slosh the water with long-handled wooden wave-makers. But even Mike Curtiz, colossal director that he is, can't bring in the whole Atlantic for a movie, so Grot had to provide a substitute for the far horizons. When his substitute is lighted and in operation, the effect—even to the onlooker who is not so readily deceived as the camera—is of far-stretching water, shimmering and alive as the real thing.

The entire set is surrounded by a vast "horizon" cyclorama, the "sea" indicated in pale blue. Behind it is Grot's dry-water contraption—three vast unbroken sheets of cellophane, one superimposed loosely on another, all marked by broad, uneven stripes of black paint. When the "water" is lighted, and machinery raises and lowers alternate cellophane sheets, the illusion of a limitless sea—on the other side of the cyclorama—is perfect. But a carelessly dropped cigaret butt could burn up the ocean, and the two big galleons they have built to sail it.

These ships, life-size, are items of vast carven beauty. The Albatross of Elizabeth's England and the Madre de Dios of Philip's Spain are side by side, anchored in the Warner waves, for the current action which is quite something to see.

For a panicky moment, forgetting that Stage 21 is the movie Sea of Wonders, I don't like the idea of that big hulk of a boat bearing down on the slight wooden catwalk where I stand behind the wave-makers. But then it all comes back, and I know the Albatross will stop. It does. It is riding on rails, controlled from another portion of the stage.

On Stage 21, under mechanical control, a movie boat can sail and sink and rise again from the deep if need be. It can ride out a horrific storm, tossed like a bobbling cork, or it can be cradled gently on the breast of a dreamy tropic sea.

63,000 BOTTLES OF MILK GIVEN CITY'S KIDDIES

Community Fund Agency Helps Give Milk to Those Who Are Unable to Pay.

(Editor's Note: This is the seventh and final of a series of articles and pictures dealing with the nine agencies that make up the Mansfield Community Fund. A campaign to raise $57,500 for the support of these agencies for the ensuing year will open April 29.)

* * *

The Milk Fund is the simplest of all the agencies in the Community Fund. It has no office, no operating expense, and no governing board. Its sole purpose is to provide milk for undernourished school children. The arrangements are made for a certain number of bottles of milk to be delivered twice daily to every grade school in the city, and the bills are sent directly to the Community Fund office. The only workers are the teachers and the children themselves who assist in distributing the milk.

Many undernourished children are able to pay for their daily milk and do so, so that no one knows, except the teachers, which child is receiving free milk and which ones pay.

The milk is delivered twice daily, in time for morning and afternoon recesses, to all grade schools of the Public schools, St. Peter's Parochial schools and the kindergarten of Friendly House.

School nurses check the weight and physical condition of the pupils to be sure that those in need are on the milk list.

The milk is served in half pint bottles, with clean straws through the cap. It not only provides much needed nourishment, but breaks the hours between meals for children.

Last year more than 63,000 bottles of milk were consumed by Mansfield school children, which were paid for from the Milk Fund. For many of the children, this is the only milk they get since their parents cannot afford to include it in the family diet.

The Community Fund paid out $1,784 last year for school milk This year $1,750 has been allotted to the Milk Fund from the budget of $57,500.

While there are only nine agencies affiliated with the Fund and these have been explained in this series of stories, there is a tenth organization that receives a very small amount of money each year. This is the Mansfield Community Memorial and Patriotic association which received $104 last year to supplement a fund for the purchase of plants and flowers for soldier graves in Mansfield. A similar sum is given each year.

If the budget is over-subscribed in the annual campaign, the over amount is divided among the nine agencies of the Fund.

Getting Daily Rations of Milk In Mansfield Schools

Here are some of Mansfield's "hardest drinkers"—the boys and girls who look forward to their morning and afternoon bottles during school recess. About three fourths of all the school milk served is paid for by the Milk Fund, while the other fourth is paid for by parents, and no one but the teacher knows which is paid for and which is free. These pictures were taken at St. Peter's elementary building and the Bowman street school. Picture No. 1—The children at St. Peter's were all ready for the cameraman and greeted him with upraised bottles. No. 2—Betty Nixon of Bowman street school is a living example of the fact that milk twice a day makes little girls healthy and plump. No. 3—When drinking milk is the business in hand, little Shirley Mae Conroy of St. Peter's school, concentrates on her work. No. 4—One of the nicest tasks of the day at St. Peter's is carrying the cases of milk around to the rooms and distributing it to hungry youngsters. No. 5—At Bowman street school the larger pupils pass out the bottles of milk to the little fellas. Here Peggy Castleberry is helping Jimmy Keeler to his morning rations. No. 6—Norma Robertson, Bowman street school, will tell you that the Milk Fund is her favorite agency of the Mansfield Community Fund.

FIND STUDENT COP IN MOVIE

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— A student traffic cop just four days out of the police department training school failed to return to his post from lunch.

The sergeant played a hunch, traced him to a theater—and found him in the back row asleep.

The young patrolman was discharged for using his badge as a pass to the movie and going to sleep on duty.

JUST CUT-UPS

PARIS—(AP) As an economy measure the French censorship is now using re-sharpened scissors—actual as well as symbolic badge of its authority.

During the first months of the war scissors were replaced in the censorship offices at the rate of 10 or 15 pairs a week. Now they are being done over. Some 200 pairs of scissors have been used by the French censors since the beginning of the war.

HIT SMUGGLERS

Panama Seeks Free Port to Combat Practice.

PANAMA CITY, R. P.—(INS)—Dr. Augusto S. Boyd, President of the Republic of Panama, has suggested that a free port of entry for the republic be established to solve the problem of coping with the smuggling of products from United States operated Canal Zone commissaries into Panama.

The chief executive said he believes the Bay of Panama should be filled in and a free port for the country established. He said he believed the project would cost about $15,000,000 but that it would pay $20,000,000 in return.

The problem of preventing smuggling of all sorts of products ranging from food products to cigarettes into Panama from the Canal Zone has long been a worry to the little republic. An example of the temptation to smuggle goods from the zone to Panama can be understood in the comparison of prices of cigarettes. Cigarettes in the Canal Zone for employes cost from six to eight cents a pack, while in Panama the prices are 15 and 20 cents a pack.
